FLINT STREET NATIVITY

THE FLINT STREET NATIVITY

The Flint Street Nativity was originally a TV comedy produced for Yorkshire Television and aired during Christmas 1999.

Tim Firth (Calendar Girls) then rewrote the play and added music for the stage version. The story is based on real events, collected over a period of ten years from members of Tim Firth's family and friends who were teachers.

Moreton Bay Theatre Company is bringing the show to the stage at NeverLand Theatre from the 6th - 15th December with an array of local talent. NeverLand Theatre is located at 5A 4-6 Burke Crescent, North Lakes (near Crocs).

Mizzis Horrocks' class of seven year olds is about to perform their nativity play at Flint Street Junior School for the proud mums and dads - and the occasional social worker. Squabbles arise when Gabriel wants to play Mary, the Star grumbles he's not a proper star like they have at NASA, Herod won't stop waving to his mum and dad and the subversive Innkeeper is determined to liven up the traditional script. And then the stick insect escapes...

The children are played by adults, who later play their parents so the set changes accordingly to reflect the difference in scale.

This warm, witty, funny play is an ideal alternative to the usual Christmas fare with original lyrics set to the tunes of the usual Christmas carols.

NEW LEARNER TEST FOR QLD

NEW LEARNER TEST FOR QUEENSLAND DRIVERS

New Queensland drivers will experience a revolutionary online learning and assessment program, designed to replace the written road rules test and to improve young driver safety.

PrePL will replace the current 30-question written road rules test aiming to reduce risks to motorists aged 16 to 24 years by shifting the focus of new driver education towards behaviour, rather than basic road rules testing. Yjjs groups is 60 per cent more likely to be involved serious crashes than more mature drivers.

The programs can be accessed across smart phones, tablets and computers and focusses on the Fatal Five: speeding, drink and drug driving, failure to wear a seatbelt, driving while fatigued and distraction.

PrePL is now available as an option to all new Queensland drivers applying for their learner licence. The written road rules test will be gradually phased out over the next year.

Alternative arrangements will be available for customers unable to access the online program.

WE CAN'T AFFORD LABOR

Christmas should be a special time for children, but for the 1.1m young Australians living in poverty it's just another time they go without. Another reminder of all the experiences, materials and support that they've missed out on this year.

At Christmas time a child living in poverty may feel the effects of missing out on presents, the rest of the year the effects of poverty reach well beyond their home lives. Many disadvantaged children start school already behind. Without access to early learning experiences and resources, children living in poverty may not have the opportunity to develop basic skills in reading or numeracy. And at school, not having the essential items they need can make a child feel like they don't fit in or can't keep up with what's going on in class.

As each year passes, poverty widens the gap between these children and their classmates. Not being able to keep up at school diminishes young people's self-belief and confidence.

The Smith Family aims to raise $3.8 million nationally to assist more than 9,000 children with essential learning support and mentoring programs to help them catch up and keep up at school.

Donations will help children like Liam (not his real name), whose childhood started out like most others, but was turned upside down in Year 5 when his mother was diagnosed with cancer. The illness meant she couldn't work for many months and things became tough at home. Then, when his dad left, their lives fell apart.

Liam's mother did everything she could for him and his sister, but their home life had completely changed. Without a regular income, the family

SHARE CHRISTMAS TO HELP YOUNG AUSTRALIANS IN NEED

Queenslanders are being encouraged to dig deep this holiday season to help provide a better future for disadvantaged children through the Smith Family's annual Christmas appeal.

needed to move to more affordable housing. With barely enough money for rent, there was no money for schoolbooks or a uniform that fit.

"I used to love school and have great friends. Then Mum got sick and we had to move over and over again. I didn't feel good at school anymore," Liam said.

The difference poverty made to Liam's life was particularly noticeable at Christmas - once a time for family celebration, it had become another reminder of their hardship.

You can help a child like Liam through The Smith Family this Christmas by:

- Making a donation to help a child keep up at school through vital learning support and mentoring programs, such as reading programs and after-school Learning Clubs.
- Purchasing a toy or book through The Smith Family's online charity gift shop for a child in need.
- Sponsoring a child to help them with their education over the long term.
- Volunteering your time, skills and energy to support The Smith Family's work.

Calling Half Time on Christmas

Written by Alecia Connor, Associate at Best Wilson Buckley Family Law

So whilst many people are making lists (and checking them twice), locking in Christmas party dates, and looking for that perfect advent calendar, many people also have the worry of "what are we doing with the kids?" hanging over their heads at this time of year.

This time of year can cause much stress and anxiety in separated families; not just for the adults, who are trying to ensure that everyone receives their part of the cake, but for the children. In newly separated families, this might be the first time that the children have to contemplate spending time on Christmas Day without both parents.

If this is the case, parents will also have to grapple with the idea that they will not spend all day with their children on what can be their most exciting day of the year. Whilst this places a large amount of pressure on everyone involved, here are some tips to survive the crazy season while also protecting your children from any potential madness.

Plan early. Don't wait until the week before Christmas to raise this. Have discussions early so that both the parents and the children know what lies ahead. Hopefully some sensible discussions may lead to an agreement being reached about this day. However if this is unsuccessful, then you may even need to engage a mediation service or obtain legal advice to assist in helping you sort it out.

Consider the need to travel on Christmas Day. Many people immediately think that the best and perhaps fairest way to manage Christmas Day is to split it down the middle, i.e. changeover at midday at a halfway point. Whilst at the outset this may appear to be in the best interests of the children, consider carefully whether this in fact is in your situation. Consider things such as, do you travel to visit extended family? Are the children used to going from one house to another for Christmas Day (i.e. between grandparents) or have they traditionally remained at one house for the duration of the day? All of these factors will impact on what the best arrangements are for your children for a post-separation Christmas.

Consider what the relationship is like between yourself and your partner and each of your respective families, particularly if you are considering a Christmas Day changeover. Many children count down the days to Christmas and if changeovers are not always completely amicable consider whether it is worth the risk of potentially exposing your children to this on their favourite day.

Look at other options for Christmas Day. Whilst what I will refer to as the Christmas Day swinger option (i.e. changeover halfway through Christmas Day) is often the preferred method particularly when the children are young, sometimes it may be better to alternate the Christmas period from year to year. The children therefore can spend a relaxed, enjoyable Christmas period with one parent and know that the following year they will do the same with their other parent. Whilst it may be hard for the parent who does not see the child on Christmas Day in that particular year, why not use the opportunity to create a second Christmas Day celebration on another day.

And lastly... communicate with your kids. Once an agreement has been reached, tell them the details of this. This eliminates any stress for them, particularly if they are thinkers or planners.

This issue is close to my heart, professionally as well as personally. As a child, I generally fell into the category of a "Christmas Day swinger." My brother and I would generally spend the first half of the day with one parent, and then endure normally at least an hour or so in the car travelling and an awkward changeover, to then spend the second half of the day with the other parent. All the while hoping that when Mum and Dad saw each other for those very brief handover moments, that they may wish the other a Merry Christmas or spread the festive spirit in some way, to reassure me that those I loved so dearly still had respect for each other.

For many years Christmas caused a lot of stress for me. I didn't always know where I was going, for how long, or how my parents would respond to each other on this day.

Therefore I urge all parents to consider the above when having discussions and making decisions about what I think is the most wonderful time of the year.

DRUGS FOR DEPRESSION?

Hi Leonie,

I am 49 years old and single. I have been struggling with depression most of my life, certainly since primary school.

I have gone for therapy and have tried many different medications. The common thread that I have noticed with medication is that it seems to work for a short time, maybe six months or so but then it gets less effective and then back to the doctor and he either ups the dose or changes the medication. Of course, there are the inevitable side effects of anti-depressants and every time I go on a different drug, I have to go through this getting used to the drug period. The point is that treatment may initially work but nothing works long term.

Now if I'm writing in, I need to say that I have struggled with drug addiction for many years. It doesn't affect my ability to earn a living or to function, but it does affect me financially and I'm sure mentally.

Sometimes I feel that I am feeding my own depression with my addiction. I'm nearly 50 and have no spouse, not buying my own home, no true friends that I can call committed and no prospects for retirement.

I am sick of the therapy roundabout and would like to hear what you think or feel about my situation. If I were your family what would you have me do?

Name withheld by request/Clontarf

Hi,

The first thing I want to say is that I can't offer treatment for you or any individual via an email, however what I can offer is some insight into both depression and addiction.

Regarding depression, many people including some doctors, believe that anti-depressants are the treatment of choice for depression, but I like many other professionals know that anti-depressants are only part of the treatment.

For instance, a person suffering depression may very well have a lack of serotonin which anti-depressants can address. However, depression has many other factors that include Biology which includes genetics and brain changes, Environment which is a person's sense of connection to the world in that we all have need to belong and that our life has meaning, to be seen and heard and cared about and then there is the Social component.

So, if we are to treat someone with depression, we need to treat the whole person and not just the serotonin deficit in that person. We need to look at their environment their social connections to others and their view of themselves and their life purpose. In other words, their place in the world and where and who they connect to.

It may surprise you to know that almost the same can be said for addiction. When we hear the term drug addiction, we may conclude that the clue is in the name: drugs cause addiction but there is some good evidence that says that this is not the whole story.

Canadian, Bruce Alexander hypothesise that drugs do not cause addiction but that the very same conditions that contribute to depression, contribute to drug addiction which is social, environmental and biological factors.

There was a previous study that put rats into a boring cage with no stimuli and the rats could drink from either of two bottles of drip water. One was tap water and the other was opiate laced water. It was observed that the rats preferred the opiate water and in very short time drank nothing else and killed themselves in the process.

However, Bruce Alexander decided that this experiment was flawed and set up a new experiment in the 1970 where he created a kind of rat nirvana where the rats still had the same drinking choices, but their environment was very rich and stimulating. Alexander built the rats a haven with 200 times the foot print of a standard cage. They had wheels, friends to play and mate with, food and basically anything a rat could want and in this experiment the rats preferred the tap water to the opiate water. Although some of the rats did show some signs of addiction, when removed they did not show severe withdrawal symptoms.

So, to support his findings that when given a meaningful life with a rich environment, Alexander made the statement, "Addiction isn't you – it's the cage you live in,"

Now in my view this is too simplified and can be harmful if you don't look at these experiments in a balanced way.

For example, people are not rodents and none of us can create and live in utopia with no outside pressures. However, I do think that these experiments highlight the fact that depression and addiction are multifaceted and need to be treated as such. If we treat only one of contributors to these conditions and ignore our social connections and environment, we may be only treating half the problem.

I hope this has given you food for thought which hopefully will help you to address the other treatments available in addition to your antidepressants by looking at your social connections, the view you have of yourself and your environment.

By proactively looking at these factors you will be working on your depression and your addiction, but I believe that you still need the support of professional therapy to make lasting change and get the support you need.

SAVE NORTH LAKES GOLF CLUB COMMUNITY Q&A TURNS UP THE HEAT

Last Wednesday, November 21, the Mango Hill Progress Association hosted a community Q&A at the Mango Hill Hall with representatives from opposing groups Save North Lakes Golf Club (SNLGC) and The Village Retirement Group (TVRG) in attendance. Bpth groups gave presentations followed by Q&A.

Back in July, North Lakes Resort Golf Club announced the planned closure the golf course at the end of 2019 and sake of the 68 hectares to Village Retirement group, who propose developing an aged care facility on 11 hectares of the land.

Locals are notably incensed by the arrangement, claiming that these plans directly oppose the promises made when they bought in to the area and could suffer from scope creep. The sentiment is that land beyond the slated 11 hectares could be further developed, or sold to other developers. Community members in our fast growing region cite never ceasing development in the area as an example of slippery slope nature of local development.

The meeting was chaired by Laurence Christie who introduced a presentation by town planner Simon Forsyth about the proposed development, followed by presentations from SNLGC President Andrew Cathcart, Vice President Phil Carlson and Committee Member Ryan Harris rebutting with the concerns of the community. The meeting got heated when Justin Harrison, Managing Director of TVRG was presented a range of concerns from community members in attendance.

Opened in 2002, the signature Graham Marsh North Lakes golf course was the first of it's kind in greater Brisbane and played a major part in the marketing of the area. It's also home to a wide range of native wildlife, such as koalas and kangaroos. The purpose of grassroots SNLGC movement is to oppose and defeat the closure of North Lakes Golf Course and it's development.

REAL-TIME BEACH SAFETY THIS SUMMER

A wifi system that will allow surf life savers to send alerts to mobile phones to keep beachgoers safe will be rolled out across all Queensland beaches in time for summer.

This summer Life-Fi, a portable self-contained wireless network, equips lifesavers with the tools they needed to communicate directly with beachgoers.

The world-first real time safety tool that promises to break language barriers to keep locals and tourists safe on the beach will arrive at Gold Coast beaches just in time for the busiest season.

Tourism Industry Development Minister Kate Jones said Life-Fi would make Queensland beaches appeal to more tourists.

"The research shows that two of Queensland tourism's biggest selling points are its beaches and its reputation as a safe place to visit," she said.

"There is no doubt this system will save lives."

"If we can make people feel safe, we know we'll lure more people to the beach - this is a great outcome for our tourism industry."

Ms Jones said Life-fi had already been trialled at Mooloolaba Surf Life Saving Club, with great effect.

"We want to give Queensland lifesavers the cutting-edge technology they need to make our beaches the safest in the world," she said.

"That's why 10 surf lifesaving clubs will receive Life-Fi later this year, with a further four mobile devices moving along the coast as needed."

SLSQ chief executive officer John Brennan OAM thanked the Queensland Government for its vital support, saying Life-Fi would play a key role in protecting both international and domestic beachgoers this summer.

"For us, the benefits of Life-Fi are two-fold; it's a great way to encourage all swimmers to stay between the flags, but it's also a wonderful platform to provide live information on conditions and safety tips, particularly to international tourists in their own language," he said.

"It's not uncommon to see international beachgoers who don't speak English and who don't have a lot of experience in the surf, and it can be a really challenging situation for our lifesavers and lifeguards.

"Even trying to communicate simple messages such as 'swim between the flags' or 'watch out for that rip' can be almost impossible at times when you don't speak the same language.

"We can use Life-Fi to educate and engage with all beachgoers, be it international or domestic, and that could literally mean the difference between a drowning and a positive outcome in the right circumstances."

CONCERNING SUSPENSIONS RATES AT QUEENSLAND STATE SCHOOLS

Suspensions from Queensland's state schools have jumped 16 per cent over the past four years, despite changes to principals' powers that were designed to keep more kids in schools.

This new analysis doesn't necessarily mean an increase in bad behaviour, rather, QUT education researcher Professor Linda Graham believes it reflects changes in school policies and principal powers.

"Ironically, when the Newman Government introduced legislation in 2014 to grant principals greater disciplinary powers, one of the stated aims was to give extra options like Saturday detention and community service to reduce the number of suspensions," she said.

"But instead, suspensions have continued to increase, particularly in Prep and Year 7. Overall, suspensions increased 16.67 per cent (as a proportion of total enrolments) from 2014 to 2017."

Professor Graham said 2015 was a year of two major changes to Queensland's education system – the reduction in the minimum school starting age to four-and-a-half in 2015 and the transition of Year 7 to the vast majority of secondary schools.

"Suspensions in Year 7 increased by 19.92% in 2014 and by a whopping 82.54% in 2015," she said.

"It is inconceivable that the 2014 and 2015 Grade 7 cohorts were more 'badly behaved' than previous cohorts," she said.

"Rather, these patterns may reflect something in the nature of secondary schooling itself and the changes in principal powers, and suggest that disciplinary approaches in the secondary school environment may be less tolerant or supportive than those in primary school."

Between 2013 and 2014, suspensions in the first or Preparatory year of primary school rose by 51.28% (as a proportion of enrolments) and have continued to increase.

Professor Graham said international research evidence showed suspensions did not work as a tool for improving behaviour, and cited two reasons in particular.

"Alternative behaviours need to be explicitly taught if students are to use them," she said.

"But by its very definition, suspension involves the withdrawal of teaching and despite claims that it is used to gain the time needed to put supports in place, research consistently reports that none are provided.

"Also, research shows that the majority of children who are suspended feel 'happy' about it, rather than punished, as they are relieved to not be at school."

QUEENSLAND THEATRE'S HEDDA

Date: 10 November to 8 December, 2018

Location: Bille Brown Theatre, Queensland Theatre

Hedda Gabler is railing against her life. She didn't marry bogan drug slinger George Tesman so she could play housewife in a monstrous Gold Coast mansion with white leather couches, blingy chandeliers and endless rounds of Aperol Spritz.

She wants something much more. Now her old flame, Ejler Løvborg, is out of prison and off the junk. Is he about to slice off a piece of George's empire? Maybe Hedda can pull some strings to work this to her advantage.

Logie Award-winning actor Danielle Cormack (Wentworth, Rake) is the Hedda we've all been waiting to see. Melissa Bubnic gives us a local version of the Henrik Ibsen classic that is as dangerous and surprising as its heroine.

NORTH LAKES COMMUNITY WOMEN'S GROUP INC. NEWS

At our meeting this week we had a presentation by Ainsley Moden and her team from Doterra Essential Oils. Ainsley spoke on the benefits of oils whilst her team assisted us in sampling these. It was very enlightening and entertaining.

As well as this we had a pop up shop by Vicki McDowall from The Body Shop at Home. Many of our ladies took the opportunity purchase some Christmas gifts plus a variety of other goodies.

We finished off our morning with one of our members talking to the group about her experience at the recent Invictus Games where her son was a competitor. She spoke of the sportsmanship, support, respect and camaraderie shown to and by all those involved. This was a very emotional talk for the speaker and the audience.

Tuesday December 4th – Snatch and Grab commencing at 9.15am to 12.30pm Members only Tuesday December 11th – Christmas-Break up Lunch at Waters Edge Scarborough. Members only.

QUEENSLAND'S TOP PERFORMING SUBURBS

Almost 70 Queensland suburbs delivered double digit growth in the 12 months to June 2018, latest research from Real Estate Institute of Queensland (REIQ) shows in the Queensland Market Monitor report.

REIQ CEO Antonia Mercorella said while many headlines predicted doom and gloom for the property market, the reality was very different with many markets in Queensland performing exceptionally well.

"A total of 68 suburbs throughout Queensland have delivered double-digit growth over 12 months, which is a really strong result," she said. "And there are many more suburbs delivering strong single-digit growth. It's a great market to be in at the moment."

The suburbs delivering good growth are not all focused in the southeast corner, with a liberal sprinkling of suburbs throughout central and northern Queensland.

"The top area delivering the strongest growth has been Blackwater, with 151 per cent growth. This is a result of the resurgence in coal prices and the low base starting point," Ms Mercorella said.

Eleven suburbs reached an annual price growth of more than 20 per cent. These suburbs were Blackwater, Spring Mountain (Ipswich), Collinsville, Minyama (Sunshine Coast), Hamilton, Hollywell (Gold Coast), Miles, Mount Coolom, Dundowran Beach (Fraser Coast), Boonah (Scenic Rim) and Idalia (Townsville).

"This spread of suburbs is a good indication that Queensland real estate is delivering steady sustainable growth across the board. We're seeing growth outside the southeast corner," Ms Mercorella said.

Ms Mercorella cautioned against celebrating another 'boom'.

"While we're definitely seeing prices come back in western Queensland mining towns, such as Blackwater, these prices are still below their peak. It's unlikely we'll see a return to pre-2013 prices in those areas anytime soon," she said.

TOP PERFORMERS IN THE SOUTHEAST CORNER

A total of 41 suburbs in the southeast corner dominated the list of top performers for capital growth in Queensland, comprising about 60 per cent of all 68 suburbs included on the list.

A total of 15 suburbs located in the Sunshine Coast Statistical Division (including Sunshine Coast LGA and Noosa Shire) were included on the list of top performers. Houses in Minyama, located in the Kawana Waters urban centre, achieved the largest capital growth in the region of 45.8 per cent, ranking as the fourth strongest performer in Queensland. Minyama is a very exclusive suburb in the Sunshine Coast LGA, surrounded by water and offering one of the most popular marinas in the southeast corner.

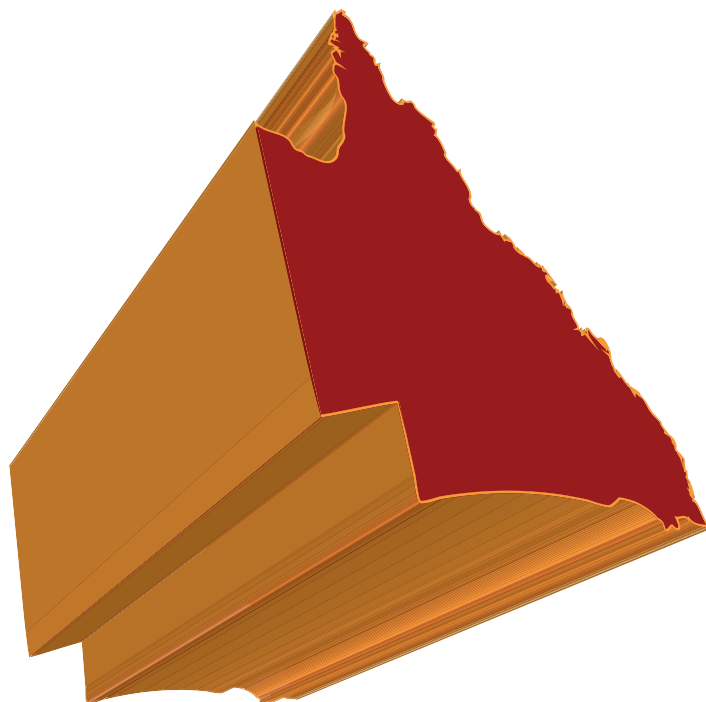

A total of 13 suburbs in Brisbane LGA made the list of top performers for the past year. Hamilton was the fifth strongest performer in Queensland and the best performer in Brisbane LGA. House prices in Hamilton increased 32.9 per cent for the past year, to $1,442,000. Hamilton was also the most expensive suburb included on the list of Queensland top performers.

MORETON BAY HAD THREE ENTRIES ON THE TOP PERFORMING LIST

Moreton Bay had three entries on the top performing list; Cashmere with a median price of $690,000 had an 18% capital growth for the year while, Bongaree with a median price of $470,000 saw 11.6% capital growth and D'aguiar with a median price of $416,000 squeaked in to double digits with a 10.9% capital growth for the year.

Other suburbs in Brisbane LGA reaching a capital growth for houses of 10 per cent or higher were Sandgate, Paddington, Mount Ommaney, Sunnybank, Graceville, Hendra, Shorncliffe, Seven Hills, Nundah, Kedron, Bulimba and Auchenflower.

Ipswich had six suburbs on the list, the Gold Coast had but Redland and Logan didn't make the list.

Hollywell in the Gold Coast is listed as the sixth performer in Queensland, with houses reaching a capital growth of 30.5 per cent for the past year. Hollywell offers waterfront lifestyle with a price range of $810,000 well below the $1 million club, making Hollywell an affordable waterfront suburb.

TOP PERFORMERS IN REGIONAL QUEENSLAND

This analysis identified 27 suburbs outside the southeast corner reporting a double digit capital growth in house prices for the past 12 months.

Townsville dominated the list in regional Queensland, with four suburbs reaching double digit house price growth. Idalia in Townsville ranks 11th on the state list and first on the Townsville LGA list. Idalia is a rapidly expanding suburb, located 10 minutes to the CBD, offering access to shopping centres, restaurants and beautiful landscaping around parks, lakes and the Ross River.

Cairns and Gympie had three suburbs on the list of top performers. Palm Cove was the best performer in Cairns, ranking 26th within the Queensland tally. House prices in Palm Cove increased 14.3 per cent, to $606,000 in June 2018.

Cooloola Cove in Gympie ranked 42th on the list as house prices increased 12 per cent for the past year, to $317,500 in June 2018. This suburb offers affordable and coastal living options.

The Whitsunday only reported Collinsville on the list, which is ranked third throughout the state. Collinsville is a mining town, reporting an annual capital growth for houses of 46.2 per cent, to $95,000 in June 2018.

Other regions reporting at least one suburb on the list were Bundaberg, Toowoomba, Banana, Charters Towers, Fraser Coast, Gladstone, Isaac, Livingstone, Mackay, Rocky, Scenic Rim, Somerset and Western Downs.

PRICE RANGE FOR TOP PERFORMING SUBURBS

Two different price range are dominant on the list of top performing suburbs. The very affordable bracket with a price range below $350,000 and the price bracket above $500,000 and below $750,000. The latest generally appeals to family lifestyle.

Eighteen top-performing suburbs reported a median house price range below $350,000. Most of these suburbs are located in regional Queensland.

Similarly, 18 top performers reported an annual median house price range between $500,000 and $749,999. Thirteen of these suburbs are located in the southeast corner.

Only eight top performing suburbs reported an annual median price range above $1 million. All these suburbs are located in Brisbane, Noosa or the Sunshine Coast LGA.

HotRods for the Homeless

Great success was had by all at the HotRods for the homeless event last Saturday at the Redcliffe Showgrounds. If you are an enthusiast of all makes, models and vintage of cars and bikes, you would have been in auto heaven.

Hundreds of people turned up to look around, listen to music, eat and have fun, and maybe you were fortunate enough win a trophy.

Let's not forget what it was for. All proceeds on the day were to help the Breakfast Club Redcliffe, who support and feed hundreds of homeless in the area.

Reventon North Lakes decided to come on board as a major sponsor to support this worthy cause.

Amanda Pearce the licensee of Reventon says "When I first read the article about HotRods for the Homeless in the messenger I jumped at the opportunity to sponsor the event as I felt it was an incredible cause to get behind. I have a real heart for this community, and I will do anything I can to help anyone that needs a helping hand. Saturday was a lot of fun we were able to take the time and chat to a lot of people. Reventon put on a free sausage sizzle, we gave out free bottles of water, we also had free sunscreen which came in very handy as it was a scorcher of a day. I think the highlight for me though was seeing everyone's reaction when I told them that it was free with no catches. I just wanted to give back. Pay it forward, it was wonderful to see so many people happy.

Amanda added " Next year I would like to put together an event in the area to tackle the problem that is facing our children every day. Bullying, grief, stress and depression, these are a growing issue within our kids."

It's been a big 6 months since we opened here in North Lakes, I am look forward to seeing what next year will hold for us."

If you would to talk to Amanda about your Property Management or Property Sales needs, you can contact her on 0459 144 288
