LEONIE ON: PROMOTED AT WORK, NOW IT'S DIFFICULT TO WITH WORK FRIENDS

Becky - Owner of Becky B Hair

For all your hair advice. ASK BECKY B

ALL ABOUT HAIR LOSS!

I've recently started losing heaps of hair and I don't know what it is from or how to stop it?

I'm going to answer this one in three parts as hair loss can occur in different ways.

DIFFUSE HAIR LOSS

DHL is when we lose hair from all over our head. It is the result of something that happened 2-3 months ago. DHL can correct itself over time if it is the result of pregnancy, operations, dieting or medication. The hair loss will stop after 2-3 month and return to normal after about 6 months. DHL can also be from a hormonal imbalance or mineral deficiency, in these cases we will have to correct your levels before hair loss returns to normal. Remember, no matter what the cause of Diffuse Hair Loss, there is always help and your hair will return to normal!

ALOPECIA AREATA

AA is fast occurring bald patches on the scalp that are round or oval. AA is an auto-immune problem and will correct itself without treatment. It can be very alarming when it occurs but simply book an appointment with a trichologist to confirm the diagnosis and you can rest assured that it isn't permanent.

GENETIC THINNING

Often called female/male pattern baldness, both men and women can suffer from genetic thinning. It can be inherited from either parent, a result of hormones or an immune reaction. To figure out which is the cause you will have to book in and see a trichologist. Be sure to take any recent blood tests with you.

Many people think that there is nothing that can be done for people suffering from balding but that is not true. Act quickly and genetic thinning can be stopped and hair can be regrown!

Stage I

Stage II

Stage III

MEET ATALIA!

BECKY B: What do you do when you aren't doing hair?

ATALIA: I'm usually either playing netball or at the gym. Or on the phone to Becky making plans like Pinky & The Brain.

BECKY B: What's something most people don't know about you?

ATALIA: I can jump fences up to 8ft, I know how to hot wire a car.. and I'm scared of the dark so I have to sleep with a night light.

BECKY B: What would you be doing if you weren't hairdressing?

ATALIA: If I wasn't zoo keeping at Becky B, I really don't know what I'd be doing!!

BECKY B: What are you watching on netflix right now?

ATALIA: Brooklyn 99.

BECKY B: Celebrity crush?

ATALIA: Cameron Munster - GAME ON KATHRYN!

BECKY B: What is one thing about hair you wish everyone knew?

ATALIA: It kills me when people pay good money to get a gorgeous colour and then go home & use super market products that strip it out. At home maintenance/ care of your hair makes a huuuuuge difference! Stylists aren't always trying to rip you off by recommending products, we genuinely care about the health and appearance of your locks!

OFFROAD REVHEADS REJOICE!

NORTH LAKES HOTEL TO HOST OFFROAD RACERS

Local revheads rejoice as the Queensland Offroad Racing Association will be holding a celebration of all things offroad racing. Open to the public, the event at North Lakes Best Western Hotel will host the torque-y beasts and some will be started up throughout the proceedings, this Saturday, 17 November.

The cars will be on display from 10am with trophies being presented to placegetters in the Mickey Thompson AORRA Queensland Offroad Championship and the Short Course series, from 5.30pm.

Everyone is welcome to attend, especially people with even a casual interest in Offroad Racing. There is no admission fee. Meals and drinks are available for purchase the whole day and during the evening there will be videos of the 2018 season shown on big screen TV's.

North Lakes Hotel & Conference Centre can be found at 22 Lakefield Drive, North Lakes.

DOB IN A DEALER

Crime Stoppers Queensland are urging local residents to help top the supply of drugs in the area and 'Dob in a Dealer.'

The Dob in a Dealer campaign that launches in Pine Rivers on Monday 12 November is part of a nationwide program designed to stop Australia's supply chain of illicit drugs including methylamphetamine (ICE), cocaine, MDMA, heroin and cannabis.

Crime Stoppers Queensland CEO, Trevor O'Hara expects public support will help police intervene with criminals and crime gangs responsible for the manufacture and supply of these drugs.

In 2017, more than $60,000 dollars worth of drugs was seized and over 650 reports were made to Crime Stoppers Queensland in the Pine Rivers region alone.

First rolled out in 2013, Crime Stoppers Australia Dob in a Dealer campaign is a national initiative that aims to seek Australian community support (over a six-month period) to encourage members of the public to report any persons suspected of dealing or supplying illicit drugs.

If you have information about someone who is manufacturing or dealing in drugs call Crime Stoppers on 1800 333 000 or online at www.crimestoppers.com.au.

ARREST MADE IN STRAWBERRY CONTAMINATION CASE

The Queensland Police Service has charged a 50-year-old woman following a complex investigation into the alleged contamination of strawberries in Queensland.

After the discovery of punnets of strawberries contaminated with needles, Queensland authorities notified the public of the safety risk on September 12.

The QPS coordinated a national investigative response with multiple government, law enforcement and intelligence agencies.

A 50-year-old woman was arrested Sunday afternoon and has been charged with seven

MORETON BAY CYCLING CLUB TO LAUNCH BEL SQUAD

Moreton Bay Cycling Club along with sponsors The Belvedere Hotel and Champion Systems Australia are launching the biggest Queensland Cycling Squad this Saturday.

The initiative will see 47 likeminded riders from North and South Brisbane and as far as Toowoomba join a squad to help each other get fit, ride safe and help other cyclists with monthly community rides from The Belvedere Hotel. The Squad's goal is to encourage all community members to get on a bike and ride safely.

Local sports star Jason McNulty who has just returned from Invictus Games will be talking about his silver medal win medal at the Sydney Invictus Games two weeks ago.

The event runs this Saturday November 17 from 4pm til 5:30pm at the Belvedere Hotel Woody Point. The Belvedere Hotel is a cyclist friendly venue who supports the community and celebrations.

BRISBANE'S INTERNATIONAL CRUISE TERMINAL

Development of Queensland's first dedicated mega-cruise ship terminal is full-steam ahead

Globally, 'Cruising' is increasing in popularity while the vessels are increasing in size. Currently, there is no dedicated cruise facility in south-east Queensland able to accommodate mega cruise ships, these vessels have to call at Brisbane's main cargo port making for a less than ideal experience for local cruisers.

By 2020 it is estimated that around 60% of the cruise vessels calling in Australia will be mega cruise ships.

The Brisbane International Cruise Terminal (BICT) is the 'missing link' in Brisbane's tourism infrastructure needed to ensure the city can attract and support the world's largest cruise ships, and will act as a gateway to the south-east Queensland region.

Open to all cruise lines, the $158 million facility at Luggage Point Pinkenba will be able to cater to cruise vessels of all sizes including the largest ocean-going cruise ships in the world.

Minister for State Development, Manufacturing, Infrastructure and Planning Cameron Dick said the terminal would put Brisbane on the world map as a mega-cruise ship destination and attract the world's largest cruise ships.

"The cruise ship industry is booming worldwide,

The kind of ship that will cruise into the BICT in 2020 and this new terminal will help secure our slice of the market by providing a dedicated facility to accommodate larger ships that are unable to dock at Portside.

"The Port of Brisbane expects the Brisbane International Cruise Terminal will generate around $5 billion in economic value to Queensland over 15 years.

"It is estimated the project will generate over 240 jobs a year over its two-year construction period and an additional 49 operational jobs each year over the next 20 years, while the terminal will also create supply chain opportunities for local businesses, traders and tourism operators.

"This vital infrastructure - Queensland's first dedicated mega cruise ship terminal - will be a fitting gateway for arriving visitors as they step on to Queensland soil and for those who can now depart in the mega cruise ships directly from Brisbane."

Port of Brisbane CEO Roy Cummins said the new terminal would be a game-changer for the tourism sector.

"This is an exciting day as we launch the visuals of the new terminal and wharf and begin the countdown to opening in 2020," he said.

"We are pleased to be working with the Queensland Government to be able to deliver this infrastructure, and we look forward to welcoming the many international, national and local visitors who are expected to pass through the terminal annually."

DO YOU REALLY NEED PREMIUM FUEL?

Premium users slugged almost 15 cents per litre more at the bowser

The good people over at RACQ handily put together comprehensive monthly reports on fuel prices. The reports compare our local fuel prices to those in other Australian capital cities and regional areas.

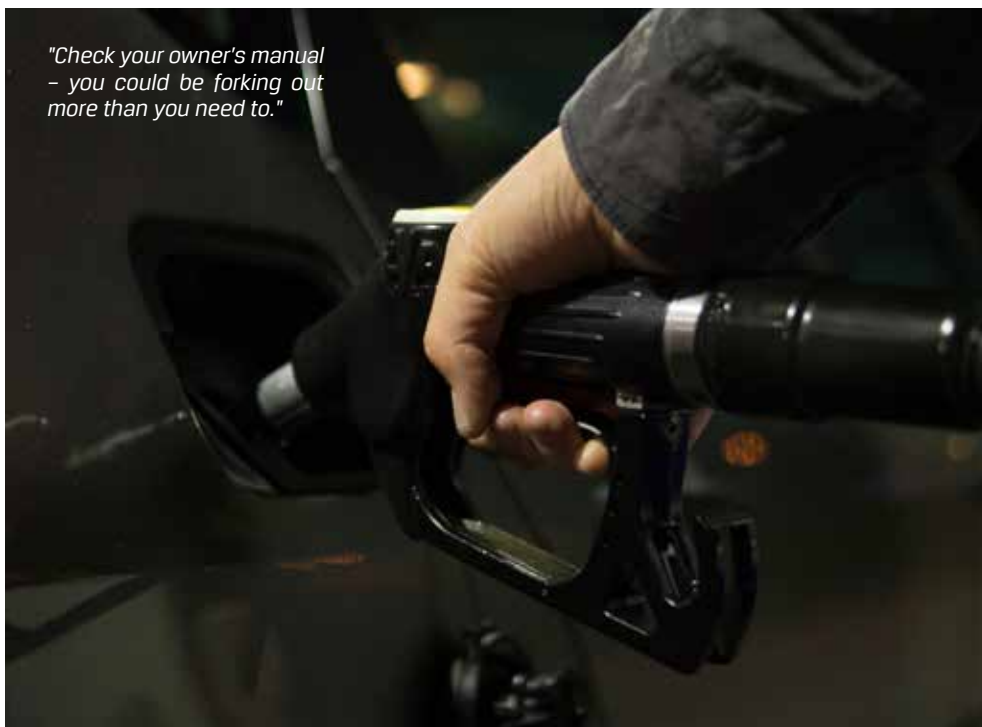

Data in the latest (October) Monthly Fuel Price Report revealed Brisbane's average premium 95 price reached an all-time record high of 174.1cpl in October, 7.5cpl higher than it was in September.

RACQ spokesperson Lucinda Ross said drivers who used premium fuel would have felt hip pocket pain, with a 14.8cpl difference between the regular unleaded and premium 95 averages.

"If your car requires premium unleaded, then that's certainly what you need to use to ensure your engine runs as it's designed to – but, if your vehicle doesn't specifically need it, there's no point in spending all that extra money," Ms Ross said.

"If you're not sure which fuel you should be using, check your owner's manual – you could be forking out more than you need to."

Ms Ross said all-time highs had been reached in October, and Brisbane drivers had been charged more for regular unleaded fuel than those in the other major capital cities which was why it was so important they were savvy about where they filled up.

"We've seen retailers enjoying indicative retail margins of more than 20cpl for premium fuel last month – that's 5cpl higher than the month prior and is a reflection of the pain drivers are suffering at the hands of global oil prices and retailer greed," she said.

"It's important motorists look for simple ways to save money, and one way is to switch to regular unleaded petrol if your car doesn't need premium."

Also take the time to research when and where you should be filling up so you're supporting the cheapest retailers are in your area – doing this could save you hundreds of dollars a year."

Ms Ross said Brisbane was on the cusp of the cheap phase of the petrol price cycle and drivers who spotted RULP for 144cpl or less should fill the tank.

PROMOTED AT WORK, NOW IT'S DIFFICULT TO WITH WORK FRIENDS

Hi Leonie,

I want to let you know that you have helped me a great deal through your column over the years and that I truly respect and value your input. I would like your advice on a situation that I now find myself in at work.

I have always had great relationships with my peers and I have worked hard to build credibility with everyone. At the beginning of this financial year I was promoted to team leader of the group of people who I previously worked with and to say it's been a difficult relationship change would be an understatement.

There is still the expectation that I will cut them favours, change rosters and socialise on the weekends. I can't do this anymore because it's not professional and it would make me look bad.

I need to do performance reviews and hold the team accountable and everyone thinks that I will just let them skate through the process without question.

I am hearing gossip that I am big headed and full of myself but I can say that I am working with the same integrity as I always have but now the slackers are my responsibility and I have to step in.

There are two people in the team whom I really like but I've had to distance myself so that I get the respect a team leader needs to fulfil the job criteria.

I refuse to lose this promotion that I have worked so hard for and I have a little girl to support and I will not put myself in the position of losing the pay upgrade.

The atmosphere is tense and what was a pleasant work place for me is now toxic. What can I do?

Name withheld/Sandgate

Hi,

It's very hard to step into a managerial role over your past team mates. It's only natural for you to want to maintain the positive camaraderie that you once shared but often this may not be possible once you are given governance over your old group.

A new way of operating in your situation is something you almost certainly need to adopt. This may mean accepting that you need to let go of friendships and distance yourself from the chummy type of role that you once had.

Your underlings are most likely acting out of fear and jealousy.

Fear - because they know that you almost certainly are aware of their respective competency levels, willingness to slack off or not and any other duplicitous behaviours that may have gone on.

Jealousy - because you are now in management, are succeeding and doing well and there could be a "why her and not me" mentality.

I believe that the best way to move forward and build and maintain your credibility is always to be unfailing fair. For instance, if there is no good reason not to change a roster when requested, change it but if it's not fair to others or is otherwise unworkable, don't.

Take this attitude to all dealings with your underlings. Be transparent, be honest and don't turn a blind eye to inappropriate behaviours. Role model ethical and competent behaviours at all times and let it be known that this is your expectation of others.

At the end of the day, you need to be their leader and not their friend. Your goal should be respect and not friendship.

You are embarking on a new career path and this usually means letting go of the old and making way for the new. You will find new solid relationships on your new tier and this will fill any lost friendship support that you may experience.

As with all things in life, only feed and water the positive things in our life and let the toxic things die out.

Til next week, Leonie

ANZAC HISTORY HAS A NEW HOME IN BRISBANE

Personal Anzac stories, experiences and memories of the First World War will join the state's most significant war relic when the Queensland Museum's new Anzac Legacy Gallery now open

No one could have envisaged that an event half way around the world would leave such an emotional and lasting impact on - not just those who were there - but all of us. The Anzac legacy is one that touches every Australian.

Now, the Queensland Museum has a permanent installation to retell the incredible stories behind the First World War in Queensland in the Anzac Legacy Gallery.

Nearly 58,000 Queenslanders enlisted, and more than ten times as many civilians supported their war efforts back home. As time has gone by, the ripples of the war have subsided, but the stories remain. They're stories of the people and the things they held close - objects of war and personal items belonging to those on the front line.

The First World War changed the face of Queensland and the new Anzac Legacy Gallery provides a permanent space to maintain this legacy.

At the launch of the exhibit, Arts Minister Leeanne Enoch welcomed back Mephisto, the only remaining German A7V tank in the world, as the centrepiece of the new Anzac Legacy Gallery.

"The iconic tank Mephisto is known to generations of Queenslanders after it was brought back by Australian troops as a war trophy in 1919.

"Anzac Legacy Gallery is a reflective learning space, rich in Queensland stories, spanning high profile events along with others that are little known.

"It's humbling to hear of the stories that take you beyond the front line and demonstrate how war affected all Queenslanders, from those at home, the aftermath of the war and also the often untold stories of the important contribution of Aboriginal Peoples and Torres Strait Islanders during the First World War."

Minister Enoch said the Anzac Legacy Gallery was Queensland Museum's second permanent new space to open in 2018, and followed the success of Sparklab Sciencentre which opened in September.

"Both these spaces, developed with funding from the Queensland Government, demonstrate our commitment to the Queensland Museum and its visitors, to commemorate our past and to put Queensland at the forefront in looking towards the future," she said.

"Queensland Museum Network attracted 2.43 million visitors in 2017-18, with 2.13 million visitors to its site at the Cultural Centre showing that Queenslanders are responding with passion to Queensland Museum exhibitions and programming."

Queensland Museum Acting CEO Dr Jim Thompson said the Anzac Legacy Gallery featured two central themes of 'Queensland at War' and 'Queensland Remembers'.

"Combining historical artefacts with cutting-edge multimedia interactives, the Gallery celebrates Queenslanders who contributed to the First World War, on the battlefield and on the home front, and links their stories with Queensland today, from contemporary service stories to innovations in science and technology," Dr Thompson said.

Other key objects showcased in the gallery include a reproduction of an iconic Queensland-designed Janet Walker mourning suit from the period, the holy vestments worn by the founder of Anzac Day, Canon David John Garland, and the Victoria Cross awarded to war hero Paddy Bugden.

The Queensland Government has contributed $8.4 million towards the development of the gallery project as part of the 2014 - 2018 Anzac Centenary, commemorating 100 years since the First World War.

The Queensland Museum can be found on the Corner of Grey and Melbourne Streets, South Bank, South Brisbane and is open 9:30am to 5:00pm daily.

YOUR STARS

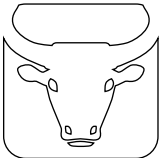

AQUARIUS. (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): Fear of appearing petty is getting in the way of pursuing a legitimate grievance. Don't let this hamper you. You were wronged and it needs to be righted.

PISCES. (Feb. 20 - March 20): Are good intentions paving the way to a hellish situation? It's worth asking a trusted friend. You could use some perspective.

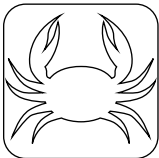

ARIES. (March 21 - April 20): The blame game puts everyone on the defensive. Do the heroic thing and take responsibility for your part even if it wasn't a big deal. Others follow suit.

TAURUS. (April 21 - May 21): Any change in financial strategy makes you nervous. You're a Taurus. That said you still need to do something more with your money than squirrel it away. You're a bull, not a rodent.

GEMINI. (May 22 - June 21): A happy ending materializes out of nowhere. Breathe a sigh of relief. It's nice to know that a deus ex machina never goes out of fashion.

CANCER. (June 22 - July 23): It's frustrating using a go-between, but the success of a negotiation depends on you keeping your distance.

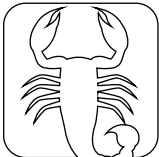

LEO. (July 24 - Aug. 23): An application or request you'd nearly forgotten about is answered - and in the affirmative! Celebrate this delightful stroke of luck!

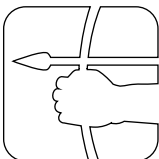

VIRGO. (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23): Your tendency to compartmentalize can block out new and creative ideas. Let yourself do some free range associating today

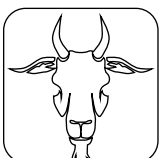

LIBRA. (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23): You can help or hinder someone else's aims. Take time to contemplate the domino effect of your actions.

SCORPIO. (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22): A boss or client helps you out in an unexpectedly generous way. This should lay to rest any suspicions that you're a mere hired hand.

SAGITTARIUS. (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21): That dry spell you were preparing for will be cut short. An offer or invitation is the first drop preceding a major downpour of opportunities.

CAPRICORN. (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20): You're getting a lot of recognition for a job well done. Be modest, but not to a fault. You've earned every compliment after all.

TIPS FOR BUYING OFF THE PLAN

While currently popular, when it comes to risk, buying off-the-plan units top the list for potential investment disasters. Brisbane City, Fortitude Valley and South Brisbane were all recently named in the Top 10 of the RiskWise 2018 list of the 100 Worst Off-The-Plan Suburbs in Australia, where oversupply of units is a huge issue.

However, buying a block of land off the plan to build your dream home in a brand new community can be an exciting and life-changing experience.

Purchasing off the plan simply means you're buying a block that is either still under construction or where work has not yet commenced.

Although it will be some time until you can move in your new home, there are several great advantages that arise from buying off the plan.

David Laner, Acting Queensland General Manager for Residential Communities at Stockland, said off-the-plan buyers had the opportunity to save a little extra money before their block settled.

"This could be especially helpful for first home buyers as only a deposit is required until the block has been completed," Mr Laner said.

"Another advantage is that you are buying a block at today's prices regardless of when it is completed."

"The lead time involved in buying off the plan also allows more time to work on the finer details of your home design and get everything organised with your chosen builder."

Mr Laner said there were five questions customers commonly asked when buying land off the plan:

WHAT EXPERT ADVICE SHOULD I SEEK WHEN BUYING THE BLOCK?

Like any property purchase, attention to detail is essential. Before you sign a contract, seek independent legal and financial advice. A solicitor or conveyancer will support you throughout the process and carry out the settlement on your behalf.

DO I HAVE TO PAY THE FULL AMOUNT FOR THE BLOCK UPFRONT?

You will only need to pay a deposit (which is a small proportion of the purchase price) on signing a contract, with the balance of the cost not payable until settlement.

HOW LONG WILL I HAVE TO WAIT FOR THE BLOCK TO BE COMPLETED?

Typically, this can take anywhere from three months to 18 months, depending on which Stockland community you are purchasing in and which land stage within that community.

CAN I SEE THE BLOCK?

It may not be possible to get all the way to your block if it's in a construction zone. However, ask a sales professional to take you as close as possible, and to show you similar blocks and completed homes in other stages.

HOW DO I KNOW WHAT SORT OF DESIGN I CAN PLACE ON THE BLOCK?

The draft plan of the subdivision will give you an indication of the size, shape and orientation of your home site. Buying off the plan means the variety of blocks is greater as you have first choice when a new stage of land is released.

Three top tips when buying off the plan:

GET PRE-APPROVAL FOR FINANCE

Having your finance ready makes it easier when you find the right block. Make sure your approval is still current when it is time to settle.

GET A FEEL FOR THE BLOCK

When you know the unique features of your block, ask to walk a completed block of a similar size so that you can get a feel for what you are buying.

ENSURE YOUR CONTACT DETAILS ARE KEPT UP TO DATE

Settlement will generally take place 14 days after you are notified that the block has been officially registered. Keep informed about the progress of construction, remembering that wet weather can sometimes cause delays.

However, Riskwise said as with any purchase there are still risks with off the plan landed properties, stating that possibility that the value of an off-the-plan property may decrease between the original contract date and settlement. That scenario could result in a capital loss, as the equity in the home could be reduced.

The risk is further increased if a pre-settlement valuation for a mortgage loan is less than the original value, as there could be a shortfall in funds to complete the sale. If these funds are unavailable, the buyer might lose the deposit paid for the property. An off the plan property also carries a cash flow risk as the actual rental may not meet the expectations.

Riswise's top three tips for buying any off the plan property are:

1. Perform independent research and be aware of the risks. If things go wrong, you, and you, will have to deal with the consequences. All the advisors do not have a skin in the game.
2. Do not take an advice from a property professional who you are not paying.
3. Distinguish between the research phase (that should be done by yourself or by a research company), and the execution phase (i.e. the purchasing activity).

Riskwise provides private investors and home buyers with detailed risk information, once you've weighed the pros of cons at www.riskwiseproperty.com.au, if you're interested in an off the plan purchase Stockland offers a wide range of lot sizes and prices across Queensland. To find out more, visit a Stockland Sales and Information Centre at your chosen community, call 13 LAND (13 5263) or go to www.stockland.com.au/residential/qld

A word from our clients...

Landlord - Dingo Street, North Lakes

"From the first phone call to the Ray White team, we have had nothing but service. The speed and efficiency to have our property ready for rental was amazing. The information flow, updates and continuous feedback was wonderful. Our customer experience all the way has been exceptional and we would never hesitate to recommend Ray White Mango Hill. A big massive thanks to Chloe Boswell & Rebecca Welch the process has been seamless."

Landlord - Newport & Griffin

"We have been dealing with Ray White North Lakes for the last 18 months and highly recommend this agency for their efficiency and attention to detailed knowledge of the locality they service. When it was time find another agent to manage our 2nd property we didn't even need to look far as Rebecca and Chloe and the rest of the team managed our first property so well we entrusted them with our 2nd property without second thoughts. Highly recommend this agency whether you are a landlord or tenant."
