LEMON LAWS: BOUGHT A DUD? NOW YOU'RE BETTER PROTECTED

New laws provide greater rights for Queenslanders who have been sold 'lemon' vehicles, including cars, motorhomes and caravans.

The Queensland Civil and Administrative Tribunal and Other Legislation Amendment Bill 2018 increases the consumer protections of people sold new and old motor vehicles with numerous defects that reoccur despite multiple repair attempts or where defects have caused a motor vehicle to be out of service for a prolonged period of time.

The Bill increases QCAT's current jurisdictional limit of $25,000 to $100,000 for matters involving motor vehicles with either a major fault or multiple minor faults.

If a consumer cannot obtain a suitable remedy in negotiation with the dealer or manufacturer under Australian Consumer Law, they have the option of seeking a remedy through QCAT or the courts.

The Bill will also re-instate statutory warranties to older second-hand cars, making it a requirement for motor dealers to provide warranties for cars more than 10 years old or with 160,000km+ on the clock.

RACQ has welcomed the introduction of new 'lemon laws' with spokesperson Paul Turner saying:

"We're happy to see the reinstatement of warranty protection which will protect those buying older or higher mileage vehicles. This means everyone is covered, even those buying at the cheapest end of the market, which might include those buying their first car."

TALK & TASTE: BUSH TUCKER GARDENING

Attendees can join Veronica of Witjuti Grub Bushfood Nursery for an information session about the thousands of native plant species traditionally tended and harvested by Australian Indigenous people.

Taste samples and learn how you can create your own bushfood garden at home. Participants will also be provided with a plant species list.

Talk & Taste: Bush Tucker Gardening runs 10.30am - 12noon, 27 November 2018 at the Redcliffe Art Gallery - 470-476 Oxley Avenue, Redcliffe. Bookings are essential via www.moretonbay.qld.gov.au

Photos from new local event

North Lakes Golf Club is holding new regular outings called The Sunset Socials, where locals get together on Friday nights to enjoy live entertainment while serving up cold drinks and playing host to popular food trucks.

The last event saw local song-man Caillin Malley perform his energetic, folksy, guitar driven blend of covers and original music while the aromas of flavourmakers That Greek Truck and Tangled Tatoes wafted over the green.

If you missed out, don't worry, the next Sunset Socials at NLGC is on Friday, 30 November 2018 from 5pm-9pm, and will see rop/pop genre chameleon Lucas on Tour entertaining with burger champs Bearded Brothers and Mexican Fresh slinging meals from their foodtrucks.

CAN'T I JUST BE ANGRY?

Hi Ms Schilling,

I've been thinking about writing for some time now. I come from a pretty dysfunctional family. I don't cope all that well with stress and find I'm quite an upset and isolated person. I have been told I have anger issues and this week my father has said that they are going away this Christmas to avoid another family get together blow up.

Another thing if I'm honest, my work has become more and more toxic which has made me more and more angry and upset. The thing is I am not a person with violent outbursts or someone who has steroid rage. I have been given a written warning at work but every other nut job can go off and nothing is said.

I certainly don't want to go to anger management workshops and I don't want to be told what to feel. I see everyone else and all their issues and wonder why I am being singled out as the 'Hot Head'.

I've tried the stress relief stuff like running but now I have shin splints. I have tried meditation but can't focus. I feel angry that I can't just be angry.

Mum and Dad pulling the plug on Christmas has really upset me. I feel as though they are distancing themselves from me and I rarely see them as it is. My brother and sisters are no angels and we do clash but I'm not one to just smile and swallow their rubbish. I should be allowed to feel what I feel, and we have emotions for a reason surely. And if I bottle up my anger, won't it make me sick?

I'm willing to listen and learn but please don't tell me not to be me.

Tash/Woodside

Hi Tash,

Let me come at this from a different angle: when I have clients, who are drinking too much and their relationships at home, socially and at work are suffering and they say some version of "It's not like I'm an alcoholic. I don't have a drinking problem" I point out that if their drinking is affecting others, themselves and or their ability to earn a living, they do indeed have a drinking problem. The message I am getting from you is that your anger is indeed affecting your relationships and your work environment and this being the case, you need to accept that you do have an anger management problem.

You have mentioned that you need to let your anger out to stop being sick. The truth is that you need to find a way to constructively manage your emotions so that you don't get sick. Bottom line: people can't afford to be angry. We have known for years that ongoing prolonged anger compromises health.

There are chemical changes that occur in the body when we get angry and it's not pretty. High blood pressure, cardiovascular and other issues such as a compromised immune system (which we rely on to fight disease) can be linked to unmanaged anger. Stress hormones like adrenaline and noradrenaline are released and these hormones are great to get you out of a dangerous situation, but they are detrimental if they are a constant in your body. Anger is bad for us and has a negative effect on our bodies, but the good news is that if we modify the way we process information, the way we deal with thoughts and the way we talk to ourselves, we can manage anger in a more productive and healthy way. This means that those with anger issues can enjoy better and more rewarding relationships with others. There is no doubt in my mind that unmanaged anger can cause the perpetrator to become isolated as you say you are. Healthy people won't tolerate abuse or behaviours that make them feel threatened and so they rightly remove themselves. Ask yourself,

"Is this what you want your life to look like?"

You don't have to go to workshops to manage anger but rather I suggest personal counselling to show you how to manage your known triggers, change your thinking and internal dialogue to a healthier narrative and gain power over your anger. You say that this issue has been going on for some time now so perhaps it's time for you to stop repeating the negative loops that are so affecting your personal and professional relationships and try something different. Remember that if nothing changes then nothing changes.

YOUR STARS

AQUARIUS. (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): You have a lot more going for you than you think. What you currently lack in means is made up for by love and support.

PISCES. (Feb. 20 - March 20): This isn't the time to fret. Stemming the tide requires bold action. Think of your most audacious move and go for it.

ARIES. (March 21 - April 20): There's a difference between exacting and exasperating. Remember that a little push is all it takes to help someone realize an objective.

TAURUS. (April 21 - May 21): Today's Moon/Jupiter sextile shows you going from a trial period to something more permanent, but don't act like it's a done deal. People are still tentative.

GEMINI. (May 22 - June 21): You can accept that for every loss there's a gain, but does it have to be so extreme? At least you can say there's never a dull moment.

CANCER. (June 22 - July 23): Today's Moon/Jupiter sextiles shows that you can look forward to the return of some stability. It will be a while before life returns to normal, but at least the sleepless nights are over.

LEO. (July 24 - Aug. 23): It's up to you to broach the topic of finances with a loved one. Focus on figures, not feelings, and let the math speak for itself.

VIRGO. (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23): A favorable Moon/Jupiter sextile shows that you're past the point of things running afoul. You can count your chickens with peace of mind.

LIBRA. (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23): Aims change. Something you can't help noticing as where you wound up bears little resemblance to how you started out. Thankfully you like where you landed.

SCORPIO. (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22): You thought a project was done, but maybe there's something more to say? These could be the seeds of a sequel.

SAGITTARIUS. (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21): Tired of feeling weighed down? You've let yourself become fettered by others' problems lately. Take back your freedom of choice.

CAPRICORN. (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20): Doors that were once closed, spring open again. This is all the proof you need that things are back on track.

QUEENSLAND THEATRE'S HEDDA

Date: 10 November to 8 December, 2018

Location: Bille Brown Theatre, Queensland Theatre

Hedda Gabler is railing against her life. She didn't marry bogan drug slinger George Tesman so she could play housewife in a monstrous Gold Coast mansion with white leather couches, bling chandeliers and endless rounds of Aperol Spritz.

She wants something much more. Now her old flame, Ejler Løvborg, is out of prison and off the junk. Is he about to slice off a piece of George's empire? Maybe Hedda can pull some strings to work this to her advantage.

Logie Award-winning actor Danielle Cormack (Wentworth, Rake) is the Hedda we've all been waiting to see. Melissa Bubnic gives us a local version of the Henrik Ibsen classic that is as dangerous and surprising as its heroine.

THE GREAT AUSTRALIAN DREAM, INCREASINGLY, JUST A DREAM

As the Australian dream of home ownership becomes harder to achieve and Australians are evolving and adapting expectations

The Evolving Great Australian Dream 2018 whitepaper revealed that 86.2% of Australians find it increasingly difficult for people to achieve the traditional Australian dream of buying a free-standing house.

The study, a joint effort by Mortgage Choice and CoreData's, also found a deep cultural connection to property and financial security, however nine in 10 prospective buyers said they feel it's hard to get into the property market due to high property prices.

Affordability continues to be the key trigger for purchase. As such, Australians are adjusting their expectations, with seven in 10 Australians believing there is a need to reimagine a 'new' Australian dream that is more in line with reality.

Susan Mitchell, Chief Executive Officer, Mortgage Choice said, "Owning a property has long been a cornerstone of the Great Australian Dream. However, with the growth in house prices, especially in metropolitan areas, the dream is evolving to encompass options beyond the traditional freestanding home on a quarter-acre block".

This year we saw shifting attitudes toward living in apartments, with 62% Australians saying an apartment doesn't carry the same sense of home and permanency as a free-standing house (versus 75% in 2017).

"Over the last few years, we have seen a surge in the number of people embracing apartment living, especially in metro centres where significant lifestyle upgrades such as pools and gyms are on offer," said Ms Mitchell.

"But while many Australians are happy with apartment living, the data continues to suggest others are only choosing apartments because they believe they can't yet afford the traditional dream of a free-standing home".

The whitepaper also revealed Australians are willing to compromise, with 89% saying they would move to a more affordable suburb; or move to a smaller property (77%).

Other ways Australians say they are securing property is by paying Lenders Mortgage Insurance (31%) and enlisting a guarantor (5%) for their home loan.

Ms Mitchell said the biggest hurdle home buyers face is saving a sufficient deposit that amounts to 20% of the purchase price, and this has been made even harder by strong property prices, which have outpaced wage growth over recent years.

"To put the challenge into perspective, today Australians need to save and sacrifice for many years to put down a deposit of $100,000 to secure a median priced home valued at $556,384. Not to mention the additional costs typically associated with property purchase such as stamp duty and legal fees".

For buyers with less than a 20% deposit, the whitepaper provides insights on purchasing strategies such as Lenders Mortgage Insurance (LMI) or engaging a guarantor.

"LMI is a fairly small expense in the overall cost of purchasing a home and it does have the benefit of helping a buyer purchase a home with a smaller deposit, thereby allowing them to get onto the property ladder sooner rather than later.

"The whitepaper also reveals that some (4.9%) purchasers are successfully engaging guarantors to purchase. Bucking the trend are home buyers aged 29 years and below, of which 21.8% had someone go guarantor on their mortgage," said Ms Mitchell.

Our study also asked Australians about the impact of rising interest rates predicted for 2019.

"While the official cash rate has remained on hold for almost two years, borrowers and prospective buyers should not take the current low-rate environment for granted.

"The RBA may have the official cash rate on hold but we are increasingly seeing lenders make small out of cycle rate increases due to a mix of factors including wholesale funding costs, macroprudential regulation changes and tightened lending policies".

In fact, the whitepaper revealed that 28% of Australians saw a mortgage broker first when they purchased a home or investment property (up from 16% in 2017).

Younger Australians increased foot traffic to brokers by 30% this year with 44% of 25-45 year olds consulting a mortgage broker first when buying a property.

"In an increasingly complex lending environment, more home buyers are seeking the expertise of professional mortgage brokers first when they purchase a home or investment property, and this is likely to grow," Ms Mitchell concluded.

TIPS TO PROTECT YOUR PET AHEAD OF A DISASTER

As the summer storm season approaches pet owners are reminded to prepare a disaster plan – and not to forget the furry and feathered members of the family.

World Animal Protection is encouraging people to be prepared by planning ahead – and they have disaster packs for cats, dogs, horses, birds and small animals available to help.

It's crucial to have a disaster plan for you, your family and your pet before a disaster strikes.

"Many people don't have a disaster plan that includes their pets. We know from looking at past disasters that people can make last-minute decisions to try to keep their pets safe – putting themselves in danger in the process," Simone Clarke, Director at World Animal Protection said.

"Pets must be part of emergency planning, not just to protect them, but to keep your family safe too."

World Animal Protection's top three disaster preparation tips are:

1. Prepare a disaster survival kit for your pet with food, water, medicine, identification, and a favourite toy for comfort. Put it in an easy to access spot and check it regularly to keep it up-to-date.
2. Identify a 'safe house', somewhere such as a friend's house, pet friendly motel, or animal shelter where you can take your pet during World Animal Protection has provided much needed help to nearly eight million animals during more than 250 disasters

3. Practise your plan so your pet is used to moving into their carrier. This will ensure you and your pet can move fast and stay calm in an emergency

With 50 years' experience intervening in disasters around the world, World Animal Protection has provided much needed help to nearly eight million animals during more than 250 disasters.

World Animal Protection offers free disaster packs to start planning for your pet, visit protectyourpet.org.au for yours.
