BULLYING: HOW TO DEAL WITH THIS COMPLEX ISSUE

The line between bully and bullied is blurred.
The bullies are often bullied
themselves

More than 817,000 young Queenslanders returned to school recently. Sadly, it's not always an exciting for our youngest. For victims of bullying, inside and outside of school, it can be a daunting return.

Bullying is a complex issue that can take many forms and as we've seen in the media in recent years, can have tragic circumstances.

While parents may feel it's an issue they have to tackle, and the student themselves feel helpless, recent bullying research shows the need for a greater, national, response to tackle this complex issue.

A survey of Australian kids by Yourtown (A national Kids Helpline and Parentline) showed that more than half who admitted they engaged in potentially cyberbullying behaviour also believed they were being cyberbullied and suggested the need for a national response, coordinating actions and programs to tackle the issue.

According to Yourtown/Kids Helpline's Head of Strategy and Research John Dalgleish, the survey revealed enlightening results with socialisation identified as a key contributor to bullying.

"We found the line between bully and bullied is blurred with 52% of respondents who said they engaged in potential cyberbullying behaviour being cyberbullied themselves," Mr Dalgleish said.

"Many of the young people engaging in cyberbullying also said they did so in an attempt to seek justice for the abuses they had received."

"This suggests cyberbullying takes place because of breakdowns in peer relationships. It also highlights that education is exceptionally important to give our kids the skills to develop and maintain respectful peer relationships and learn legitimate pathways to achieve meaningful conflict resolution."

Of those that were cyberbullied 58% reported experiencing cyberbullying weekly or more frequently. Name calling (77%), rumours (71%) and exclusion (65%) were the most commonly reported forms of cyberbullying.

Encouragingly, 79% of young people had told someone about being cyberbullied with friends (56%), and parents and carers (43%) the most common confidants.

"This demonstrates how important it is that we encourage and support parents and carers to have conversations with their children. While only two out of five young people disclosed the bullying to their parents, of those that did 87% found the conversation helpful," Mr Dalgleish said.

"A critical part of your response is to avoid jumping in to solve the problem"

In 2017, Yourtown responded to 959 specific cases of cyberbullying and 151 of them were from young Queenslanders. The most common age group is 12-14 year olds, but also a significant number from 15-17 year olds. It also responded to 3111 contacts nationally with concerns about on line activity and texting, with 496 of these coming from Queensland. More concerning is that in 2017 yourtown responded to 10,636 contacts with suicide related concerns. This was a 22% increase from 2016.

Premier Anastacia Palaszczuk agreed with Yourtown's results and called a roundtable resulting in The Queensland Government approving new measures to tackle bullying and cyberbullying and their devastating effects on young lives in Queensland.

"No longer can a 'bad day' at school be left behind at the school gates. Through social media platforms, school yard taunts and harassment can follow students into their home. From the classroom to bedroom, some young Queenslanders feel there is no respite from criticism or worse." Premier Anastacia Palaszczuk said

"Imagine receiving – repeatedly – the message 'you are not wanted and no one likes you'?"

But lets get practical, how parents and carers can respond? Bullying. No Way! a group of organisational bodies working together to create learning environments where every student and school community member is safe, supported, respected and valued, suggest these best practices:

If your child talks to you about bullying

Children and young people need to know that they are being heard, that their feelings matter and that their issue will be investigated respectfully. Bullying should be taken seriously.

Listen calmly and get the full story

Your calm response is important to allow your child to tell you all about the situation. After they've told you their story, ask questions to get more details if you need to: who, what, where, when.

Your first response when a child tells you of a concern can make a difference to the outcome.

Although you may feel some strong emotions about your child's experience, try to keep calm to avoid more distress to your child.

Reassure your child they are not to blame

Many children blame themselves and this may make them feel even worse.

You could say things like, 'That sounds really hard to deal with. No one should have to put up with that.' or 'I'm so glad you told me. You should be able to feel safe at school; that's not fair at all'.

Ask your child what they want to do and what they want you to do

A critical part of your response is to avoid jumping in to solve the problem.

While it is natural to want to protect your child, helping them to find their own solution is a better option. It helps them feel they have some power in the situation.

You don't need to be alone with bullying, help is often on hand from someone you know. You can talk to a teacher, guidance officer or school counsellor or someone in your family – aunt, uncle, grandparent or there may be a friend who could help you.

Prevention is better than Cure!

Australian Standards state that all homes should have at least annual timber pest inspections. Termites are destructive and can destroy a property within a matter of weeks if undetected. Without regular timber pest inspections homeowners could be at risk of termites gaining concealed entry and working their way through the home.

Sandgate Pest Control specialise in termite treatments and control. By booking a timber pest inspection with one of Sandgate Pest Control's experienced technicians you will be able to determine if your home has any current termite issues.

A technician will spend time checking all the accessible timbers throughout the home including the roof void and property boundaries. They will also use a moisture meter on all accessible walls to detect any excess moisture. A full report is given detailing all findings and or recommendations including a quote for termite protection to your home to prevent future termite attack.

To inspect and protect your home call Sandgate Pest Control on 3269 6198 and visit our website for more information www.sandgatepest.com.au

CALLING ALL QUEENSLANDERS

To an unmissable game of Queensland Great vs Queensland Great - A Night with Cameron Smith and JT

On February 23 there's a footy event that will make your maroon blood glow brightly, it's the clash of Queensland great against Queensland great, at a place where history is forged - it's the Cameron Smith and Johnathan Thurston Testimonial Match at Suncorp Stadium.

Players like Cameron Smith and Johnathan Thurston come along only once in a lifetime, and when they do, it's reason to gather. And gather we will when League legends Smith and Thurston will be recognised for their incredible contribution to Rugby League in a special testimonial match to be played ahead of the 2018 season.

Smith's Melbourne Storm will take on Thurston's North Queensland Cowboys at their beloved Suncorp Stadium next year. It will be the first time the teams have faced each other since the 2017 NRL Grand Final, in which Smith's Storm won 34-6 over a Cowboys side playing its second Grand Final in three years, after losing co-captain Thurston to a season-ending shoulder injury in Origin II.

It will also mark the start of Thurston's final year in the NRL. The match will provide fans with an opportunity to pay tribute to two living legends, and will also be a chance for both Smith and Thurston to thank the fans who have supported them throughout their careers, ahead of what is set to be a memorable season for both.

Proving they're legends off the field as well, Smith and Thurston have announced three charities as official partners for the event, they are the Cowboys Community Foundation supported 'NRL Cowboys House', Ovarian Cancer Australia and Prostate Cancer Foundation. Both players' dedication to Rugby League is matched only by their commitment to giving back to the community so they are thrilled to be able to support these charities with a portion of ticket sales being donated to all three.

So, if you know what it feels like to bleed maroon, and are proud to call Queensland home, then this is the one game you must witness in 2018.

Tickets are available via Ticketek.com.au or 132849. The match will also be broadcast (exclusively) on Fox Sports or you could ...

WIN! TICKETS

The Messenger has two double passes to the Cameron Smith and Johnathan Thurston Testimonial Match at Suncorp Stadium and we want them to go real, maroon blooded, fans.

There are two prizes to win, each with two tickets valued at $29 for the Friday February 23 match at Suncorp Stadium, with kick off at 7pm. The total prize pool is worth $116.

St Benedict's College teachers Amanda Robinson and Prudence Lowry get cheesy

LOCAL TEACHERS GET CHEESY IN THE CLASSROOM

Joining peers from 14 Brisbane and regional schools the teachers took a class on how to make both blue and white mould cheeses.

The aim is to take these new skills and knowledge back to the classroom to share with their students, who will then enter the Royal Queensland Show's Student Made Cheese Competition in June.

It's a fun and practical way for students to learn. For students entering the competition the six week process will give them a better understanding of, and appreciation for, commercial food production.

2017 BEST EVER YEAR FOR QUEENSLAND EXPORTS

Queensland earned a record $69.6 billion from exports last year, increasing our state's exports faster than the national average, up by $14.3 billion from the $55.3 billion recorded in 2016.

One in every four dollars Australia earns from exports is generated in Queensland.

Premier Annastacia Palaszczuk said the increase was due a focus on trade, targeting new opportunities and strengthening existing markets in conjunction with business and industry

"Developing our export markets around the world is critical to creating jobs and opportunities for Queenslanders. Since the 2015 election, the Government has worked with business and industry to create 143,400 new jobs," the Premier said.

CITY SCHOOLS TO BRING ARTS ED TO REGIONAL QUEENSLAND

Queensland Music Festival is calling out to large, metropolitan Queensland schools to help take high quality arts performances to students in rural and remote classrooms through its Youth Touring program's new Outreach initiative.

Regional schools often face challenges accessing high quality arts education experiences because of their geographic remoteness, school size and financial pressures on school resources. But now, schools that participate in Youth Touring's initiative can enable smaller regional and remote schools to access a performance from QMF's 2018 Youth Touring lineup.

Programs such as Youth Touring are an incredibly effective way of enhancing student engagement in key learning areas, with a cross-curricular focus which provides links to STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Maths) as an integrated approach to education.

Schools wishing to participate in the Outreach initiative can contact Queensland Music Festival's Youth Touring team on 07 3010 6623 or by emailing youthtouring@qmf.org.au.

WAR DOGS MEMORIAL UNVEILED

Okay, so this one is a bit of hike but for those with a personal connection or who are interested in the history of contribution of Australia's War & Service dogs, it will be worth the drive to Forest Lake.

Last week, representatives from the RAAF Dogs Handlers Association, RSPCA, Australian War Memorial Association, RSL Queensland, veterans, families of veterans, State & Federal Politicians were present to celebrate the unveiling of the bronze War Service Dogs Memorial memorial.

We won't go into too much detail here (you can find out more at www.dogsqueensland.org.au) except to say you can visit the memorial at the Forest Lake RSL.

COPING WITH SEPARATION AFTER LONG TERM MARRIAGE

Hello Leonie,

I have recently separated from my husband of 12 years and I don't know what I should be doing or how to cope.

He has said that everything is in his name including our investment property and the cars, so I will get nothing. I can't get him to talk about this or see any reason at all. Even though there is no money owing on the family home or the rental, he says I'm out on my arse and that's it.

I am worried sick about supporting our two sons without a home or job. I have no income to speak of as we came out from the UK last year and I don't even have any friends or family here. I am all alone and it looks like I will have to start again and rebuild my life from scratch.

I am over weight and this is one of the reasons my husband wants a divorce but I feel bad about it myself. I have no will power and have tried every day to stop overeating.

I am the lowest that I think I have ever been. I hope you can give me some direction.

Dee/Woodside

Well Dee,

I strongly advise you to get legal advice as soon as possible and I suggest that you see someone who specialises in family law. I don't believe that you are without resources and I certainly don't think that you have no claim on the family assets, but you need to get qualified legal advice on how to manage your divorce and division of assets.

When we are going through a crisis such as a separation, we are stressed and often not able to think as rationally as we would under normal conditions. So, in order to protect your best interests, it only makes sense to get good legal representation. Your husband can't bully the Family Law Court and he can't intimidate your legal representation. Believe me; they are used to dealing with this kind of situation.

Dee, I feel that you would benefit from working on your self-esteem and seeing this divorce as an opportunity to rewrite your future. You may be overweight, but that is something that you can change. You may be feeling very lost but that is something that you can change. None of the things that are components of your current crises are terminal. You can rebuild your life and you may be far more powerful than you think.

So my advice is to let the big guns of law get you your share of the property and put some custody arrangements, and perhaps child maintenance in place for your boys. In the meantime, start exploring where you would like this bend in the road to take you. Do you want to return to study? Do you want to get fit and healthy? Do you want to get a job, new friends, and new hobbies?

The best revenge is living well, being all you can be and showing those who would put you down that you are just fine without them. Creating a better life is very self-rewarding. I would encourage you to speak respectfully about the separation with your boys and not to ask them to relay messages. Leave them out of any tug of war because I believe very strongly that children always remember who played dirty and who took the high road during a divorce and children should never be asked to deal with adult issues.

Your sons will have plenty of time as adults to assess their father's character; independent of your perspective or input.

Til next week, Leonie

GIVING LOCAL JOBSEEKERS A REAL GO

Helping jobseekers aged 15-24 land the job

Last year, the Federal Coalition Government announced the PaTH program to help equip job seekers with the skills they need to get into the workforce.

Luke Howarth MP said "I want to help young locals get into a career they want, the PaTH Program helps jobseekers aged 15-24 through the entire process from resume writing to landing the job".

Businesses with current vacancies are being encouraged to speak to their local job service provider about trailing a PaTH Program participant.

"There are great financial incentives available for businesses and participants through the PaTH Program".

Local businesses that take on an intern completing the Trial phase will receive an upfront payment of $1,000, and young people will receive an incentive payment of $200 per fortnight on top of their income support payment.

"Last week I spoke in Parliament and highlighted to the House the success of the PaTH Program thus far in the Petrie electorate".

"Locally 285 people have commenced the prepare phase and 164 have been hired, but the great news is only 50 people commenced the trial phase because local businesses wanted to employ them straight away" Mr Howarth said.

The PaTH program has three steps to assist young local job seekers;

- Prepare – over a six week training course, job seekers will learn techniques to help them become employable. Participants will learn how to write a cover letter, interview techniques and what is required of them in their preferred industry.

- Trial – local businesses and job seekers can trial working together from 4-12 weeks.
- Hire – local businesses that hire a PaTH program participant will receive $10,000 over six months to help them train our up and coming generation.

If you would like more information about the PaTH Program contact Luke Howarth's office on 07 3284 8008 or luke.howarth.mp@aph.gov.au

BECAUSE OF HER, WE CAN!

NAIDOC Week 2018 will celebrate the invaluable contributions that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women have made – and continue to make – to our communities, our families, our rich history and to our nation.

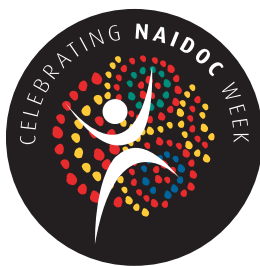

Under the theme - Because of her, we can! - NAIDOC Week 2018 will be held nationally from Sunday 8 July and continue through to Sunday 15 July.

As pillars of our society, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women have played – and continue to play – active and significant roles at the community, local, state and national levels.

As leaders, trailblazers, politicians, activists and social change advocates, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women fought and continue to fight, for justice, equal rights, indigenous rights to country, for law and justice, access to education, employment and to maintain and celebrate culture, language, music and art.

They continue to influence as doctors, lawyers, teachers, electricians, chefs, nurses, architects, rangers, emergency and defence personnel, writers, volunteers, chief executive officers, actors, singer songwriters, journalists, entrepreneurs, media personalities, board members, accountants, academics, sporting icons and Olympians, the list goes on.

Sadly, Indigenous women's role in our cultural, social and political survival has often been invisible, unsung or diminished.

For at least 65,000 years, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women have carried dreaming stories, songlines, languages and knowledge that have kept culture strong and enriched Australian indigenous as the oldest continuing culture on the planet.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women were there at first contact.

They were there at the Torres Strait Pearlers strike in 1936, the Day of Mourning in 1938, the 1939 Cumeragunja Walk-Off, at the 1946 Pilbara pastoral workers' strike, the 1965 Freedom Rides, the Wave Hill walk off in 1966, on the front line of the Aboriginal Tent Embassy in 1972 and at the drafting of the Uluru Statement.

They have marched, protested and spoken at demonstrations and national gatherings for the proper recognition of rights and calling for national reform and justice.

These are women who were heavily involved in the campaign for the 1967 Referendum and also put up their hands to represent their people at the establishment of national advocacy and representative bodies from the National Aboriginal Congress (NAC) to ATSIC to Land Councils and onto the National Congress for Australia's First Peoples.

They often did so while caring for families, maintaining homes and breaking down cultural and institutionalised barriers and gender stereotypes. They demanded a better life, greater opportunities and – in many cases equal rights – for their children, families and people.

They were pioneering women like Barangaroo, Truganini, Gladys Elphick, Fannie Cochrane-Smith, Evelyn Scott, Pearl Gibbs, Oodgeroo Noonuccal, Celuia Mapo Salee, Thancoupie, Justine Saunders, Gladys Nicholls, Flo Kennedy, Essie Coffey, Isabel Coe, Emily Kame Kngwarreye, Eleanor Harding, Mum Shirl, Ellie Gaffney and Gladys Tybingoompa.

Today, they are trailblazers like Joyce Clague, Yalmay Yunupingu, Evonne Goolagong Cawley, Nova Peris, Carol Martin, Elizabeth Morgan, Barbara Shaw, Rose Richards, Vonda Malone, Margaret Valadian, Lowitja O'Donoghue, June Oscar, Pat O'Shane, Pat Anderson Jill Milroy, Banduk Marika, Linda Burney and Rosalie Kunoth-Monks – to name but a few.

Their achievements, their voice, their unwavering passion give us strength and have empowered past generations and paved the way for generations to come.

"THE SUICIDES WE CHOOSE TO IGNORE"

WHY ARE OLDER AUSTRALIANS TAKING THEIR LIVES?

DR ANITA GREEN – BRISBANE NORTH PHN

When we think about suicide and the risk of the suicide, we often think about teenagers and in particular—young men.

However, 2015 data from the Australian Bureau of Statistics shows that men aged over 85 have the highest rate of suicide in Australia and have been labelled "the suicides we choose to ignore" by the Council on the Ageing. So why are older Australians taking their lives?

In an interview with ABC News, Professor Henry Brodaty from the Centre for Healthy Brain Ageing at the University of New South Wales, said many older Australians no longer felt as productive as they once were and had little to live for.

"They may well express to their doctor the view that they don't want care to be prolonged," he said.

"Not because they fear losing their capabilities or their capacities, but because they don't want to impose on the rest of society, it's their sense of responsibility."

Professor Brodaty believes the stoicism and pride of the so-called "greatest generation" are contributing factors here.

Having lived through the Great Depression and World War II, Professor Brodaty said this generation are less likely to see a psychiatrist or receive psychological treatments and "if they do see a doctor for their depression they're more likely to receive medication for that."

"Older people are much more likely to be in pain, which is a risk factor. They're more likely to be isolated and bereaved, which is another risk factor," he added.

Professor Brodaty also commented on the reluctance of many people to enter nursing homes, saying "I see many people in nursing homes who feel that their life is not very full and they even feel imprisoned at times, but feel they have no other options for their care."

If this story has raised issues for you or someone you know, you can get immediate support by calling:

Lifeline: 13 11 14

beyondblue: 1300 22 4636

MensLine Australia: 1300 78 99 78
www.mensline.org.au

Another risks factor is financial hardship. In new research released last week by National Seniors Australia, one quarter of older Australians had not planned for living longer—at all.

Even for those who did factor this in, they failed to plan for the last stage of life and in the words of an 83-year-old woman interviewed for this research, "I know my money will run out before I die. I can only hope that I am struck by a bus before I become feeble and can't care for myself."

Sadly, this is not an isolated case and this research clearly shows that people who have not saved enough to support themselves in retirement are depressed or even suicidal.

So what are the solutions to what has been coined an 'epidemic' of suicide among older Australians? In another article written by ABC News, internationally distinguished suicide prevention expert Professor Diego De Leo, said much more needs to be done in Australia to address suicide.

Awarded an Order of Australia for his work in this field, Professor De Leo calls for more coordinated efforts in suicide prevention, including research and creating programs tailored by age and gender. He also believes an impediment to dealing with this issue for older Australians is because "we continue to consider the elderly as less important than young people."

Locally, Brisbane North PHN is leading work to plan and better integrate suicide prevention services in into the healthcare system. It has recently produced a guide to services available in North Brisbane and the Moreton Bay region, available for download here: <https://goo.gl/JsGQgn>

OPERA QUEENSLAND IN 2018

OperaQ's Artistic Director Patrick Nolan dishes on the season ahead - grand opera, cutting edge collaborations and a large-scale regional tour

Last week's sold out Reprise event propelled Opera Queensland (OperaQ) into 2018 with new Artistic Director Patrick Nolan at the helm in what promises to be a season program of grand opera, cutting edge collaborations and a large-scale regional tour.

Reprise was a response to Gerhard Richter: The Life of Images, installed at QAGOMA since mid-October last year and finished the following day. The modern art/modern opera collaboration matched the exceedingly popular installation and paved a remarkable road ahead for outgoing Artistic Director Lindy Hume's final program with OperaQ.

The 2018 season includes two mainstage Brisbane productions - an old-school Hollywood glamour take on Franz Lehár's The Merry Widow and Mozart's classic Don Giovanni, featuring rising international star Duncan Rock.

The 2018 season will also reveal another collaboration with QAGOMA; an exclusive, secretive, project with the Brisbane Festival, with more tantalising details to be revealed later in the year - although judging by the ticket buying response to Reprise, one thing is for sure - get in quick when we let you know about it.

This year, OperaQ will hit the road with an epic regional tour offering everyday Queenslanders the opportunity to perform in an opera.

The Messenger had a chance to speak to Artistic Director Patrick Nolan (pictured right) last week, about the upcoming mainstage productions, the first of which, The Merry Widow, begins in June at the Lyric Theatre.

"It's really beautiful. It's set in the Art Deco period and is a grand spectacle," Mr Nolan said of the production.

"It's about a widow who's in love with a guy who plays hard to get. There are all sorts of mismatches. It's fun, but it's also a really glorious production and Graeme [director and choreographer Graeme Murphy] is using 12 dancers in the show."

"It's a great story and accessible. It's a really good night out," Mr Nolan said.

The stunning new production will see David Hobson (Count Danilo) and Natalie Christie Peluso (the Merry Widow) seduce the audience in a light-hearted tale of love, misunderstandings and hidden agendas. They will be joined by OperaQ favourites Katie Stenzel, Jason Barry-Smith, Shaun Brown and Virgilio Marino, performing a new English Libretto by Justin Fleming, under the baton of Vanessa Scammell.

Later in October, Lindy Hume will direct a powerful new production of Mozart's dark and dangerous opera Don Giovanni at The Playhouse, QPAC, with baritone Duncan Rock in the title role. Raised in Perth. Rock has been making his mark on the world's opera scene in recent years, including several successful outings as Don Giovanni.

"It's one of the great Operas. I think everyone knows the story of Don Giovanni as one of the great seducers. Lindy Hume is directing this one and she's setting it in the turn of the 20th century London, the time of Jack the Ripper," Mr Nolan said.

"It's a very interesting story given the sexual politics that have emerged in the last few years. I think she's going to really explore that whole idea of gender, space, identity and who has the right to do what, and to whom."

"She's going to ask a lot of good questions that need to be asked. But it's also Mozart, so it's some of the most sublime music you'll ever hear."

For younger audiences, OperaQ is touring our schools across the state with a production of Hansel & Gretel, co-created with Shake & Stir Theatre Co, while Brisbane audiences will be treated to an OperaQ collab with Queensland Theatre's Youth Program, producing new work based on Purcell's Dido and Aeneas.

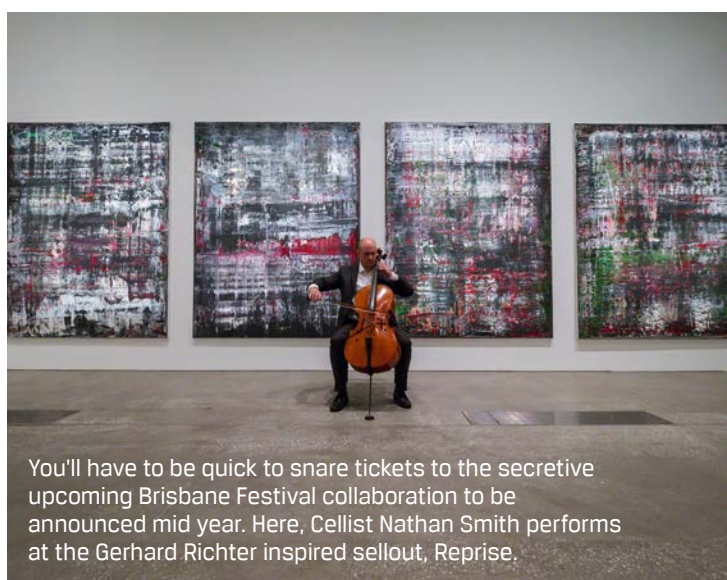

There will also be plenty of workshops for kids and grown-ups to enjoy glitteringly opening night soirees and of course, world class productions all within Ubering distance. It's going to be a great year.

For more information on the 2018 season and tickets, visit www.operaq.com.au

OperaQ launched the 2018 season with a modern art/modern opera collaboration with QAGOMA. Here, Paul Grabowsky and ARIA award-winning artist Megan Washington perform The Richter Songs.

Artistic Director Patrick Nolan takes over from Lindy Hume who will be back in October to direct a re-imagining of the classic Don Giovanni

You'll have to be quick to snare tickets to the secretive upcoming Brisbane Festival collaboration to be announced mid year. Here, Cellist Nathan Smith performs at the Gerhard Richter inspired sellout, Reprise.

YOUR STARS

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19: A newbie colleague reminds you of you at an earlier stage of the game. Give the kind of guidance you wish that someone had shown you.

Pisces Feb 20- March 20: There's something to be said for out of sight, out of mind. Too much thought to intangibles takes away from the things that matter.

Aries March 21-April 20: What you want is doable, but it won't happen overnight. Think of doing things in stages and you'll improve your reach.

Taurus April 21-May 21: You may be misreading terse responses. Admittedly you're not dealing with the most demonstrative kind of person, but a yes is still yes no matter how curt.

Gemini May 22-June 21: Let rivals crow about their supposed triumphs because you're on the inside track. Weeks from now they'll be the ones eating humble pie.

Cancer June 22- July 23: Expect to spend a lot of time today untangling a snafu. It would try anyone's patience, but it still beats starting over.

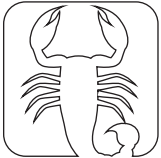

Leo July 24-Aug 23: Did you expect too much or was waiting for a response an unconscious form of procrastination? In any case the reins are handed back to you.

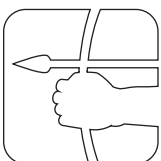

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23: Before asking an intimate why they didn't come to see you in the first place, reflect on your recent availability. People can only be kept for so long.

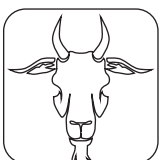

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23: A vision of the way things could be does no good if you won't act on it. Even a stumble is a step in the right direction.

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22: In truth you don't like having to play the heavy. Its emotionally draining and you have feelings too. Nevertheless your no nonsense way of putting things is sorely needed.

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21: Your loved one finally gets some good news. What a relief! There's only so much bad news you can take.

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20: Usually you don't back long shots, but someone's heartfelt presentation is so impressive that you're willing to make an exception this time.

One of the most original and mesmerising live performances on earth is headed for Brisbane. NORTH LAKES COMMUNITY WOMEN'S GROUP INC. NEWS

Our first General Meeting for the year was well attended, with 75 members and 4 visitors eager to hear what we have planned for the year ahead, to offer their feedback and many to volunteer for our Convenor and Sub-Committee positions.

Of course there was still plenty of time to sing Happy Birthday to our February birthday ladies and enjoy a piece of delicious chocolate cake.

We also had the pleasure of being able to congratulate two of our members who celebrated 10 years of membership with our Group.

Tuesday 20th February – BINGO!! Come along for a fun morning to win Mystery Envelopes for game prizes. Visitors welcome.

Tuesday 27th February – Lunch at Lone Star Rib House, North Lakes. Bookings essential. Members only.

Tuesday 6th March – General Meeting. Visitors welcome.

Our meetings are open to all women in North Lakes/Mango Hill-Moreton Bay District. For more information please contact Trish 0447 071 221 or Sue 0418 785 944.

QUEENSLANDERS SHOP AROUND FOR POWER DISCOUNTS

Electricity consumers across the state are snapping up more and better power price deals

Citing as the Palaszczuk Government's affordable energy initiatives, Energy Minister Dr Anthony Lynham welcomed Alinta Energy boosting its discount offer to more than 100,000 existing south-east Queensland customers.

Alinta Energy is in joint venture with publicly-owned generator CS Energy announced a 25 per cent, two-year electricity discount in August last year for residential and small commercial and industrial customers within the Energex distribution area.

Meanwhile, more than 7000 regional Queensland customers have pocketed rewards for taking up flexible billing options with Ergon, the state's publicly-owned regional electricity retailer.

"Customers across the state have switched on to incentives and offers available to trim their power bills," Dr Lynham said.

"Our $2 billion Affordable Energy Plan is well and truly starting to kick in for Queenslander households and small business."

Alinta Energy has just increased its discount on energy usage rates for its 100,000-plus customers in south-east Queensland from 25 per cent to 28 per cent, if you're already a customer, you would have gotten a text message announcing it.

The new deal will be extended to existing customers, as well as new sign-ons, and is worth about $400 per annum to an average customer.

"Alinta Energy has secured more than 100,000 customers in SEQ in the past six months, which highlights that many people were obviously looking for a better deal on their electricity bills," Dr Lynham said.

Across regional Queensland more than 7000 customers have registered for and are receiving their Easy Pay Reward payments from Ergon - $75 for households and $120 for small businesses.

Dr Lynham said most of these were households and he encouraged regional small businesses to take advantage of the offer.

"I also encourage South-East Queenslanders to shop around and choose the electricity retailer that offers the best deal for them," he said.

"Almost every SEQ electricity retailer has signed up to our Affordable Energy Pledge to pass on all the savings to consumers that the government is making in our publicly-owned electricity system.

"A Queensland Competition Authority report recently showed that shopping around could deliver annual savings of up to $588 for SEQ households.

"We are mounting an all-out attack on electricity prices: consumers to make sure they aren't missing out."

Under its Affordable Energy Plan, the government is also providing:

- a two-year cap on electricity price rises to average inflation
- a $50 annual rebate over the next two years, as a dividend for customers from the publicly-owned electricity businesses.

A word from our clients...

"We first met Darren at an Open Home & liked that he was authentic! So when it came time for us to sell our home for a sea change we contacted Darren! We had a few other agents through first but we didn't connect with them. So we were happy that after a visit from Darren that we were on the same page. He saw the value in our home like we did! That means a lot to "house proud" people. We would highly recommend Darren & his team. An authentic & down to earth agent!"
