What is your level of experience?

Are you looking for a daily commute, weekend ride, or both?

If you're new to riding, you may want to look for a bike that is or has:

- Pick a bike that will allow you to always ride within your skill level.

Which type of bike do you prefer?

- Cruiser bikes
- Dirt bikes

- A bike that's easy to maintain and does it all

How do you think about riding?

- I live to ride. It's my everything and there's nothing in this world like it. I'm on my bike all the time.

- I love the speed and power of my bike. I like to take it fast and I love to get my knee down on the corners - I'm a track-day junkie.

- I do a bit of everything. Riding is a passion and I do all types of riding from on road to off road.

- I just get out on the weekends, shove the bike in the back of the ute or trailer and hit the dirt. I love the thrill of the being on the dirt!

- I just love being out on the open road and the sun out shining, wind in my face.

“Breathe Easy” Air Treatment Solutions

by James Scott, Assistant Manager at Harvey Norman Rothwell

Air Purification - Most commonly air purification is a reactive purchase to a problem. People with allergies, Asthma and even skin sensitivities will most often seek a solution to a pre-existing condition. But why would people without these conditions consider purifying the air they breathe at home?

Air Purifiers do just that, they clean and purify the air in your home that you and your family breathe all day. From pollens to dust, bacteria's and mould/spore build up all the way to the odours left behind by your beloved family pets. Air Purifiers will cleanse the environment that you live in so that you can “breathe easy” knowing that the air in your home is free from any impurities that are left behind after regular cleaning.

Humidifiers –

If you experience dry and sensitive skin a Humidifier is the perfect way to relieve the discomfort of the dry seasons. No more static shocks, humidifiers produce a constant level of humidity to condition the air. Humidifiers can also suppress airborne viruses transmitted by coughing, making your home healthier, happier and more comfortable.

Dehumidifiers -

People in tropical climates know all too well the effects of a high humidity environment.

High moisture levels in the air can make your home environment quite uncomfortable. However the benefits of a Dehumidifier go further than just making you home comfortable, they also provide a range of health benefits making your home less hospitable to allergens such as dust mites,

Diffusers – Using a diffuser is one of the most effective ways to disperse essential oils in your home. Essential oils provide your home with numerous health benefits. Citrus to boost immunity, Peppermint to open airways or relieve headaches and Lavender to boost your mood and help you to relax. Three great examples of how essential oils can change the environment in your home.

WORKING FROM HOME?

Make sure to do your homework on tax claims

Modern employment and an ever-changing workplace can mean many advantages to both employer and employee. There are also some cons. One in particular is tax claims and it's become a big enough issue for the ATO to put in under a microscope.

Last tax year, a record number of Australian claimed deductions for expenses incurred while working from home. But a high level of mistakes, errors and questionable claims has prompted the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) to increase attention, scrutiny and education for home office expenses this year.

Assistant Commissioner Kath Anderson said that last year, 6.7 million taxpayers claimed a record $7.9 billion in deductions for 'other work-related expenses' which includes expenses related to working from home.

"There is a rising trend of employees working from home, and while extra costs related to working from home are usually deductible, we are seeing some taxpayers either over-claiming or claiming private costs," she said.

"There is mounting evidence that many taxpayers don't know what they can and cannot claim. In particular, we are seeing some taxpayers claiming expenses they never paid for, expenses their employer reimbursed, private expenses and expenses with no supporting records," Ms Anderson said.

Taxpayers can legitimately claim additional costs incurred as a direct result of working from home, but need to be careful not to claim private expenses as well.

"Claims for the work-related portion of expenses like phone, internet, depreciation of your computer, printing and stationary are all allowed," she said.

"But one of the biggest issues we are seeing is people claiming the entire amount of expenses like their internet or mobile phone, not just the extra bit related to work. In reality, the rest of us are subsidising their private phone calls and internet usage, which is not okay," she said.

According to Ms Anderson, the additional costs of running expenses like electricity for heating, cooling and lighting are deductible, but you need to be able to demonstrate that there were additional costs.

"If working from home means sitting in front of the TV or at the kitchen bench doing some emails, it's unlikely that you are incurring any additional expenses. However, if you have a separate work area, then you can claim the work-related portion of running expenses for that space," she said.

While employees can claim additional running costs associated with working from home, occupancy costs are limited.

"Employees cannot generally claim occupancy-related expenses like rent, mortgage repayments, property insurance, land taxes and rates," Ms Anderson said.

Ms Anderson warned that employers are sometimes contacted to verify expenses.

"Taxpayers claiming working from home expenses should remember that we might contact their employer to confirm their claim. Sometimes we discover that the employer paid the costs, either upfront or through reimbursement, while other times we discover there was no need for the employee to work from home at all."

According to Ms Anderson, record-keeping is a key focus area for the ATO this year.

"This tax time we expect to disallow a lot of claims where the taxpayer hasn't kept records to prove that they legitimately incurred the expense and that the expense was related to their work," she said.

"To claim working from home expenses, taxpayers must keep supporting records such as receipts, diary entries and itemised phone bills or other records. Even though detailed receipts are not required for phone and internet claims up to $50 per year, it's not an automatic entitlement – you still need to be able to show how you calculated your claim," she said.

"The ATO has a handy Home Office expenses calculator on our website to help taxpayers calculate their claim, and a very good guide to working from home," Ms Anderson said.

While technology is allowing more and more employees to work from home, it is also allowing the ATO to deploy sophisticated systems and analytics to spot claims that don't add up and claims that are out of the ordinary compared to others in similar occupations earning similar income.

Ms Anderson said there are three golden rules for taxpayers to follow to get working from home claims right.

"One – you must have spent the money yourself and not been reimbursed, two – the claim must be directly related to earning your income, and three – you need a record to prove it."

There are different claimable situations for people whose home is principal workplace, for those who have a dedicated work area at home and for those who work at home but no dedicated work area. There's a breakdown for these what's claimable and what's not online at www.ato.gov.au/Individuals/Income-and-deductions-you-can-claim/Home-office-expenses/

The ATO also has a handy home office calculator to use it visit www.ato.gov.au/calculators-and-tools/home-office-expenses-calculator/

LOST.

The dumbest smart person you'll ever meet.

For the purpose of this article, I asked Facebook a simple question. "What is the first word that comes to mind when you think of me?"

The responses were pretty much what I had expected - "loving", "colourful", "wild", "vibrant", "passionate", "creative", "inspired", "honest", "caring", "clever", "fabulous" and "enthusiastic". I clearly have some really nice friends! All of their observations are accurate to some degree. They are all part of the many layers that make me, me. Yet, as I read them my inner voice was saying "Ha, if only they knew."

But then there was a final one, the most accurate of them all... "LOST". Nail on the head, right there.

So yeah, I'm "one of those" creative types. This lets me get away with being way too chatty, quirky, weird and what sometimes comes across as self-importance and over confidence.

When I drop f-bombs at inappropriate times, and roll around on the floor at a wedding to get the best angle, no explanation is needed. I am simply "one of those creative types".

In group situations, I am the most talkative. I often find myself monopolising conversations. The loudest voice though, is the one in my head - chastising me for my selfishness and blatant disregard of those I am sharing the conversation with.

I justify it by telling myself that I "just get excited" and "I need to interrupt so that I don't forget what I was going to say". But in truth, it is rude. It really is. It is also a big symptom of an overwhelming need and feeble attempt to fit in and be accepted.

You see, I truly do embrace my quirkiness, and weirdness. I love to be different from the norm. Yet, I also have an inner little voice whispering from the school playground "Why can't I fit in?" and "Will somebody play with me?"

If contradictions were a sport, I'd be the world record holder. Whilst the whole "left brain/right brain" theory has been largely debunked, I am one of those who are equally analytical as I am creative.

In fact, when I want to be creative, I make a deliberate decision to do so. I tell myself "Ok Tan, let's go. Think outside the box, let's make something cool". Creativity doesn't "flow" from me as it does others.

My childhood was far from "normal" and I will likely always bear the scars. My self talk is so deeply ingrained that it often defines me and frequently renders me completely incapacitated and unable to function at the most basic of levels.

Despite the silliness and "craziness" that my friends and I know are intrinsically me, when the darkness descends, that "me" quickly disappears. It is replaced by a self-loathing, self-pitying, empty shell who is convinced that they are not worthy of the joys and happiness that life can offer. I become certain that I shouldn't be "exposing people" to my disgusting self.

I "know for a fact" that I am scaring my children. Rather than feeling that they need their mum, I convince myself that their lives would be truly better off without my toxicity and turmoil.

I sometimes hide under my bed for days, "knowing" that I don't deserve to be at the same level as everybody else. Under my bed is physically the lowest place I can put myself (short of a digging a hole, which I have actually considered too). I believe I should be below the rest of the world, so it is there that I go.

Even as I write this, I am thinking "This is the most self-indulgent piece of crap, why would anyone want to read this?"

Hands up if you are nodding your head right now. More of you than we all like to admit, sadly.

So, there is this "Tan", who is crazy, clever, creative, driven and passionate, and colourful. Yep, all of those wonderful things.

Yet, simultaneously exists the other "Tan" who does not believe that she is worthy to be labeled as any of them.

Being one giant walking contradiction can be helpful at times too. It means that I can spend one day writing web code and segmenting social media data for a client. The very next day I can happily spend 12 hours straight meticulously photographing, and then hand-painting a single image in Photoshop to bring a concept I have stuck in my mind to life.

Frustratingly, it also means that I overthink everything. I overthink to the point that the resulting anxiety is unbearable. I develop so much self-loathing and inner conflict, that I inevitably take it out on those around me. Those I love. Because in those thoughts, I truly do become lost.

People who have known me since I was a child observe that I am "a freak" because I "excel" at everything I try.

Yet, most weeks I struggle to pay my rent.

I have been told multiple times by the same friend over the years that I am "the dumbest smart person" she knows. Ouch! Yes, that one hurts.

So, how is it that somebody who is apparently "so talented" and "so driven" can sometimes go 3 days without eating or showering. Why do I consistently fail at life with so many apparent talents in my "arsenal"?

It's simple really. Just like so many of you, I am one of "those" who struggles with their inner demons ie. Mental Illness. You see, I am a person with multiple diagnoses. If you can look it up in a psychology textbook, I've probably been diagnosed it at some time. A little girl lost.

Over coming weeks I will continue to tell my story. We can experience it together and know that we are not alone in our struggles.

Nice to know you, I am Tan. Probably the dumbest smart person you'll ever meet.

160 FREE TAFE COURSES

The State Government has announced it will cover the costs of training for Queensland year 12 graduates who start a high priority qualification at TAFE.

The 160 high priority qualification courses available under the Free TAFE program range from Construction and Aviation, through to Childcare and Tourism.

"This will change the lives of many 18 year olds in Bancroft," said Chris Whiting MP.

"Free TAFE courses will give our kids the best opportunity to get these future jobs, as well as job in other growth industries."

"With only 13 per cent of students in the Moreton Bay region going on to University, compared to more than 50 per cent in inner Brisbane, this measure will change the futures of participants," said Chris Whiting.

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS: FRESH EYES

Pine Rivers Art Gallery are seeking artists to submit applications for a 2019 group exhibition, Fresh Eyes: New Landscapes of the Moreton Bay Region.

Our existence with the landscape always shares a physical reality, we stand within it. However, we often share a deeper social or spiritual connection with the landscapes we interact with - the playground where you take your children, the trail where you hike on weekends, or your favourite local café.

In Fresh Eyes: New Landscapes of the Moreton Bay Region artists are asked to share landscapes from the Moreton Bay Region that are special to them. Natural and industrial landscapes will share the gallery with scenes of everyday surroundings. This exhibition aims to explore what draws artists to depict certain landscapes and what connection they hold to them.

Artists working in all mediums are invited to enter their works. Experimentation with depicting landscapes will be highly encouraged.

Fresh Eyes will be exhibited at Pine Rivers Art Gallery from 25 January 2019 to 23 March 2019. Expressions of interest will close at 11.59pm, Sunday 25 November 2018.

FUEL PRICES TO SOAR

By the time you read this you could be paying record prices to fuel your car.

RACQ spokesperson Lucinda Ross said about 10 percent of the Brisbane unleaded petrol (ULP) market had increased their prices to 162.9 cents per litre (cpl) and, if this trend continued, it would likely result in the highest average price for the River City since July 2014.

"And not surprisingly, we've again seen the major fuel companies, BP, Coles, Caltex and Woolworths, be the first to hike their prices to these outrageous levels," she said.

"It's frustrating drivers in Brisbane are being taken advantage of - they're already paying more for fuel than motorists in most of the other large Australian capitals."

Ms Ross said although global oil prices had increased in recent months, there was no justification for prices to be hiked to the levels that had been seen.

"At 162.9cpl, servos are taking retail margins of about 23cpl - while this is consistent with recent price hikes, fuel company margins in Brisbane are much higher than the other large capitals," she said.

$14.7M TO UPGRADE MORETON BAY ROADS

Your road trips around the region are about to get a whole lot smoother as Moreton Bay Regional Council has announced a $14.7 million package to resurface more than 150 roads across the region.

Asset, Construction and Maintenance Spokesperson Councillor Adam Hain said councillors today awarded three tenders to commence council's 2018/19 road resurfacing program.

"Roads connect our region's 386,000 residents, 25,000 businesses and 3.6 million annual visitors, and it's important that these networks are well-maintained," Cr Hain said.

"In addition to resurfacing our local roads, the scope of works will also include line marking, gully pit, and kerb and channel replacement, where required.

Council will work with emergency services and public transport service providers to minimise disruptions to all road users, and residents along affected roads will receive direct communications and VMS boards will be displayed prior to works commencing.

Cr Hain said works would be carried out progressively over coming months and would complement other major road projects across the region.

"It's part of council's $109.5 million commitment towards roads and transport infrastructure across Moreton Bay for 2018/19."

T.C. BEIRNE RETURNS

The iconic T.C. Beirne name has returned to one of Brisbane's most historic buildings, the heritage listed T.C. Beirne & Co. on Brunswick Street, Fortitude Valley.

For decades people knew T.C. Beirne & Co. as the place to shop for fashion and now the building has been returned its former glory.

Irishman, Thomas Charles Beirne (born 1860) was the founder and director of the T.C. Beirne department stores. He became one of Queensland's wealthiest businessmen and remained active in the business right up until his death in 1949. David Jones bought out the store in the 1960s and it continued to trade before closing in 1973.

The building's historic features, including the iconic Brunswick and Duncan Street façades, exposed original columns have been restored and a striking glass atrium installed.

Set to open in October 2018, the retail space has already attracted major dining and leisure tenants including the Beirne Lane bar and restaurant and Brisbane's first B. Lucky & Sons delivering a complete entertainment experience.

MY HUSBAND BUSTED ME CHECKING EX'S SOCIAL MEDIA

Hi Leonie,

I am having trouble with my new husband and I don't want to talk to family about it. We are all part of a family business and we work to a budget so if I came to see a counsellor everyone would know or be asking why I needed the extra money.

Okay here it goes. We have been married for almost nine months and together for three years. Last weekend, my husband caught me checking my ex-partner's Facebook and Instagram and now says he doesn't think I'm over him and that we shouldn't have got married and that I kept secrets. This has blown us up and I can't understand why he has reacted this way to something so petty.

I was just bored and wondered if the ex was still at the same job and yes, I did wonder what his status was and if he was engaged or married or whatever. I was really looking to see if he had someone and if she was wearing the ring I gave back when we broke up. It doesn't matter I was just bored.

Why has such a petty thing put my marriage in jeopardy? What can I do and how to do I rescue things.

Name withheld by request/Moreton Downs

Hi,

Well there is a new "buzz" term that is doing the rounds at the moment called "Micro Cheating" and this is an issue that has been the demise of many a union. Its just now that someone has labelled the behaviours that go along with Micro Cheating that we are hearing about it.

Micro cheating may include:

- Secretly messaging someone else or having emotional talks with others
- When you get a buzz by having secret messages or you feel that having a non-romantic relationship validates you
- You check out your ex's face book page or other social media accounts to see if they are dating someone new or still in the area.
- Deleting browsing history
- Having a pass word on your phone or any other device (what have you got to hide?)
- Having a little savings account on the side (is this escape money?)

I would ask you to seriously consider why your ex is on your mind. Is it just the ring? Why do you care what job this ex is in?

Your husband has valid concerns and most people would feel distrustful of this ex stalking behaviour.

I believe that everyone should have some privacy such as private thoughts and interactions with family and counsellors but if you are doing something that you know your partner would not be okay with, you really need to consider if you should be doing it.

Ask yourself: would you be okay with your husband looking backwards towards his ex-girlfriend? So what can you do about it?

First I suggest that you explain to your husband that you do now understand that this behaviour is not okay and even though you had no ill intent you will cease this activity immediately and he need not worry about it again. If he is still struggling after you clarify your new intentions and your understanding of why he is upset, consider counselling.

Counselling can help you both formulate a new code of conduct for the marriage going forward. These new agreed upon behaviours will give you a road map going forward that you both can trust.

Till next week, Leonie

NEW LOCAL YOUTH THEATRE COMPANY OPENS DOOR

North Lakes based Moreton Bay Youth Theatre to build skills in youth ages 5+

School Holiday Workshop and Show auditions this weekend

Moreton Bay Youth Theatre (MBYT) is a new theatre company based in North Lakes focused on developing students performance craft, confidence, teamwork and public-speaking skills through Musical Theatre and Acting Classes. Their aim is to provide a fun, nurturing and enjoyable learning environment for performers from ages 5 upwards.

On the 15th of September, MBYT will open their doors for auditions for their inaugural School Holiday Workshop and Show, a fun and energetic High School Musical Junior. The programme is designed to give everyone the opportunity to shine regardless of experience.

Director and co-founder of Moreton Bay Youth Theatre, Matthew Bapty, says that MBYT wish to accommodate and welcome all.

"We want to make sure everyone has the opportunity to build their confidence and showcase who they are, whilst also allowing them to embark on new creative journeys and meet and work with new people," Mr Bapty said.

"It's so incredibly important to encourage youth participation in the performing arts."

The week-long workshop will be run by passionate and qualified instructors. Each mentor has extensive experience and on-going education in their fields to ensure the students are given the best possible training and performance experience in a nurturing and enjoyable environment.

"Our ultimate goal for the week is for everyone to have a fun experience," Mr Bapty said.

The workshop will run for a week from Monday the 24th of September to Friday the 28th of September, with four performances running that weekend.

In order to keep all participants actively learning, rehearsals will run on a specific schedule consisting on time for blocking, vocals and choreography. ## NEW COUNCILLOR CODE OF CONDUCT to enforce higher standards in Local Government

A new Councillor Code of Conduct spelling out the minimum behaviour required of Local Government elected representatives has been released.

The Code of Conduct, which takes effect in December, is the latest in a series of Local Government reforms.

Other Local Government reforms include a ban on political donations from property developers, the automatic suspension of Mayors and Councillors for a range of integrity offences, and a new power for the Local Government Minister to dismiss or suspend a Council, Councillor or Mayor in the public interest.

"This new Code of Conduct sets the bar high for Queensland's elected Local Government representatives," Local Government Minister Stirling Hinchliff said.

"It sets out the principles and standards of behaviour expected of Councillors and Mayors when carrying out their roles, responsibilities and obligations as the elected representatives of their communities."

The new Code of Conduct has a strong focus on the three 'R's, namely:

- that councillors carry out RESPONSIBILITIES conscientiously and in the best interests of the council and the community;
- they treat people in a reasonable, just, RESPECTFUL and non-discriminatory way; and
- ensure their conduct does not reflect adversely on the REPUTATION of the council.

"I'm encouraged that more than 35 councils have already signed up for training and I urge the others to do the same in the interests of good governance and their ratepayers."

Mr Hinchliffe said a range of tough penalties would apply to those who breach the Code when it takes effect in December.

"Councillors who break the Code of Conduct can be reprimanded or ordered to attend training or counselling," he said.

They can also be ordered to publicly admit they've engaged in inappropriate conduct or be excluded from stated local government meetings.

All Councillors must declare that they will abide by this Code of Conduct when they are elected.

It applies to all Councils, except Brisbane City Council which has a separate Code.

The Code of Conduct can be viewed here www.dlgrma.qld.gov.au/code-of-conduct.

THE SMART PUP FOR JAMES PROJECT:

image courtesy of Smart Pups

Spring is here in North Lakes and a welcome arrival after the long winter we've had this year. It's been cold lately, but it didn't slow us down as we have been very busy.

CHILDREN OF COURAGE 2018:

We staged our 5TH Children of Courage 2018 Awards last month, with their theme "AIMING for the STARS". The club welcomed six wonderful children now recognised for their courage and strength of character, in dealing with their challenges every day. Kaelen 11 years of age, Byron 11, Kaelen 10, Lillyanna 7, Indy 9 and Matthew 14. Our District Governor Carmel Goldsworthy, Sherillee McDougall, Councillor Julie Greer and District Chairman Diane Unwin, all helped with the presentations. Other members who attended were President John Paul & Lion Greg Milne who was the MC.

SMART PUP FOR JAMES PROJECT:

I've mentioned previously that North Lakes Lions Club has taken on a project to help provide sponsorship, for a young mother in our area to acquire an assistance smart pup for her autistic son James. The family is required to fundraise $20,000-$25,000 towards the cost of training a Smart Pup. This is quite a feat for this young family, so our club is supporting them the best we can. Smart Pups improve the quality of life for young people and their families through custom training Assistance Dogs to master "task specific" support skills.

The Smart Pup becomes an integral part of the family unit, safeguarding the child's health and well-being, provides early intervention assistance, friendship and companionship, can ease anxiety over daily challenges and provide opportunities for a greater level of independence and boost confidence for improved social inclusion and development. I'm happy to report that we are now well on the way to making this lifechanging difference a reality. We've allocated proceed funds that we've acquired at the club, to add to this very worthwhile project.

We have also had a Grant Application for this project approved by the Australian Lions Foundation, who will match the funds raised by the Lions Club of North Lakes up to $5000 for this project.

We are also conducting two exciting upcoming Community Events, fundraising for A Dog for James: A Movie Night in the Park - Aurora Park Saturday 6th October AND Walk A Dog for James - Lake Eden Sunday 28th October. If you can support us with this project in any way, contact Lion Greg Milne anytime on 0422422710 or gregmilne51@gmail.com. As goals eventuate, I'll keep you informed.

NORTH LAKES LIONS TRIVIA NIGHT:

Well! We didn't think we could top the success of the trivia night last year, but, September 1st this year, knocked it out of the park. A new record has been set and feedback from people who enjoyed the night has been coming in thick and fast. Huge congratulations to the members of the organizing committee for another very successful event for our club.

We have three recipient organizations who were previously appointed to share equally from the proceeds of the night and once all the figures are finalised, we'll be notifying them. In past years we've strived for the reputation of total excellence in staging events and the trivia night is now one of the stand-out opportunities (1) to serve the community with unbelievable value for money and (2) creating a vibe that when North Lakes Lions put on a show, get your tickets quickly or you'll miss out on something very special.

BBQ AT BUNNINGS:

We will be working on the Bunning's BBQ stand on Saturday the 22nd of September, so please come and grab a couple of our tasty SAUSAGE SIZZLE's and a drink from our friendly members on the counter. You can also donate to the other project's whilst there if you wish.

BECOME A MEMBER:

Please be aware you can become a member of the North Lakes Lions Club. Call our Membership Officer Lion Sean Hughes directly, on 0427 477 990. He'll answer any initial questions and invite you to our next Dinner meeting. Come and join our club and experience first hand how your individual skills can be utilized. If you're new to the area, you can integrate, make new friends in our community, while helping others.

Till next time, Lion Chris.

ST BENEDICT'S COLLEGE CAREERS WEEK

An important, forward thinking employment preparation program seeks guidance from the local business community

St Benedict's College (SBC) recognises the importance of preparing students for the transition from secondary school to further education, employment or training. As part of the Pathways Program, Year 9 students participate in Careers Week, an intensive initiative which provides students with the opportunity to develop competencies.

As with employment and education, SBC Careers Week has grown in both importance and scope over the years to include guidance in a range of skills such as communication, collaboration, initiative, leadership, teamwork, workplace behaviour and networking.

The 2018 event, running 18th-20th of September, will see SBC Year 9 Students participate in three days of personal branding, presentation and etiquette with external specialists with the Beacon Foundation, career goal setting with Tafe Queensland presenters.

Highlights of the week will include business mentoring lunch sessions on both Tuesday and Wednesday 12:30-1:30pm. The sessions allow students the opportunity to practice their newly acquired networking skills with members of local businesses. There are more than 60 guests participating over the three days.

There are a few ways you can get involved with this important local program. SBC are currently seeking members of our local community to participate in activities such as Speed Careering and Mock Interviews or to mentor within Beacon Foundation's Polish Program.

The programs are designed to provide students with an opportunity to interact with invited guests in various ways including gaining career advice, experiencing a mock interview or practicing networking skills over a shared lunch. These are opportunities for you to learn about the students, their plans and aspirations, interests and passions; and for them to learn a little about you, your own career experiences and any insight.

If you or your business would like to get involved in SBC's Careers Week for the benefit of local students contact Peter Lavercombe on 07 3385 8888.

PISCES. (Feb. 20- March 20): You don't like crises, but now that you're safe again you have to admit that it was exciting. You'll also never take good fortune for granted again.

I rang them and asked for a FREE style consultation and here's what happened.....

- They sat with me and listened to what I wanted
- Gave me advice on the right choices for my hair
- Showed me how to manage it when I washed it myself
- Offered me a FREE wash and blow-dry a week after my service so they could make sure I loved my new colour & style
- Gave me an all-inclusive no hidden costs price before they started my service

REFORMING QUEENSLAND'S BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY

New, safer, laws for plumbing and gasfitting in Queensland

The state Government has passed new plumbing and gas fitting laws to enhance community safety and save time and money on new building approvals. The Plumbing and Drainage Bill 2018 also The Bill also introduces a plumbing - mechanical services category of licence. This licence is also vital to protect the health and safety of the Queensland community.

Minister for Housing and Public Works Mick de Brenni said the Plumbing and Drainage Bill 2018, delivers on the Government's election commitments to the plumbing industry and the community.

"Most people don't think about how valuable plumbers are until they need one in a hurry," Mr de Brenni said.

"Plumbing and gasfitting are good jobs, but the laws governing their trade - the Plumbing and Drainage Act 2002 - had been amended by more than 30 separate Bills during the past 15 years, making it hard to work with.

"This caused it to grow in size and complexity to the point that if a plumber wants to check on the technical requirements for a particular job, they have to look at the Act, and the Regulations, and the codes, making it hard for plumbers to just get on and do their job.

"Plumbing and gasfitting are industries that protect the health and safety of Queenslanders, especially our most vulnerable Queenslanders like infants and the elderly."

The new legislations includes the creation of a new licence requirement for mechanical services to address the dangers posed by incorrectly installed medical gas systems, as well as legionella in commercial air-conditioning systems like those in large office buildings or hospitals.

"In 2016, parents across Australia were horrified at the tragedy that occurred in a Sydney hospital, when a baby died and another was left with brain damage due to a medical gas fitting that was connected incorrectly," Mr de Brenni said.

"We haven't seen that kind of mistake made in Queensland, and I hope we never do.

"To make sure we don't, our new occupational licence requirement ensures these types of installations can only be performed by individuals who are suitably qualified to perform them."

Queensland Plumbers Union State Secretary Gary O'Halloran commended the Palaszczuk Government for legislating this new licence class.

"Premier Anastacia Palaszczuk and Mick de Brenni should be commended for their hard work, dedication and support for creating a new licence, which will be fundamental to quality plumbing all across Queensland and ensuring safety to the Queensland public."

Mr de Brenni said the new Plumbing and Drainage Act delivered a contemporary, streamlined and flexible legislative framework for plumbing and drainage that is clear and simple for the end user, and a revised Queensland Plumbing and Wastewater Code.

"Last year, after three years of collaborative effort with industry and community stakeholders, we committed to revitalising decade-old plumbing laws and replacing them with a modern, stronger and user-friendly legislative framework," Mr de Brenni said.

"Today we have followed through on that commitment, and I want to thank the Master Plumbers Association of Queensland and the Plumbers Union for their consistent support and input into the development of this new legislation for Queensland's plumbing industry."

Master Plumbers' Association of Queensland (MPAQ) Executive Director Penny Cornah applauded the Government for passing important, much-needed legislation today.

"Plumbers and gas fitters across Queensland are very supportive of these new reforms that will make work associated with medical gas licensed work," Ms Cornah said.

"These new laws will ensure Queensland is a safer place."

Mr de Brenni said the new laws also took the first step necessary to address a legacy issue resulting from failures of the previous LNP government.

"When Tim Mander was Public Works Minister in the previous LNP government, he promised Queensland plumbers they would not need to hold and pay for both an occupational and a contractor licence - but he failed to legislate to make that true," Mr de Brenni said.

"As a result, many Queensland plumbers acting in good faith have held only a contractor licence and have unwittingly been breaking the law.

"The Palaszczuk Government committed at the last election that we would fix this.

"Today's legislation ensures those contractors who've acted in good faith cannot be prosecuted for acting unlicensed or be subject to disciplinary action for failing to hold an occupational license.

"The next step will be to eliminate the need to pay for two licences, and the work has now commenced to deliver that."

The new legislation introduces tougher penalties for plumbers and gasfitters who endanger the health and safety of Queenslanders.

"Queenslanders can be confident that we live in the state with the most stringently regulated building and construction industry, and it's important that we continue to uphold high standards and ensure that tradespeople are appropriately qualified and licensed for the work they perform," Mr de Brenni said.

"For those rogue operators that don't, repeat offenders now face fines of close to $46,000 or 12 months in jail if they perform work that is likely to put people's lives at risk."

Mr de Brenni said a key benefit of the new system is that most homeowners will now be able to fast-track their applications and obtain a permit to start work in two days, reduced from the previous 20 days.

"Standard application timeframes for developers and owners of more complex buildings, such as multi-unit residential and commercial buildings, will also halve from 20 to 10 business days," he said.

Mr de Brenni said the Bill ensures consumers will no longer be placed in the position of buying a plumbing product from a retailer, only to find their plumber can't install it because it doesn't have the required WaterMark certification.

"Suppliers will now be prevented from selling plumbing products to consumers unless those products are appropriately certified," he said.

"And if any WaterMarked products are found to be defective or pose a public health risk, the Government will be able to act swiftly to ban them."

The Bill includes amendments to the BIF Act, clarifying the legal requirements for industry when implementing project bank accounts on building projects.

The amendments also clarify the timeframe for providing a payment schedule in response to a payment claim to improve the payment process, give more certainty of cashflow to subcontractors and reduce the administrative burden on those paying progress claims in full.

WHEN CAN PROPERTY MANAGERS AND OWNERS ENTER THE PROPERTY YOU RENT?

When you rent property or room, it is your home. Although being a rental, the property manager/owner may need to enter for inspections, repairs or a viewing. Renters also maintain the right to privacy, so what exactly are the rules?

At all times an entry notice is required. The property manager/owner can only enter the property for a valid reason and if the correct notice has been given using the Entry notice has been given to the tenant. The Entry notice is an actual form filled out by the property manager/owner and given to the tenant. It informs the tenant of the property manager/owner's intention to enter the property on a specified date.

There are rules about when these visits can happen also. According to the RTA, the authority that administers the Residential Tenancies and Rooming Accommodation Act 2008 (the Act), entry must be between 8am and 6pm Monday to Saturday. Entry is only permitted outside these hours, on a Sunday or public holidays if the tenant agrees.

For general inspections, the property manager/owner must specify a time, or 2-hour window, for a general inspection and must enter the property within that time. This timeframe does not apply to other people (e.g. tradesperson or a property valuer).

These rules, enforceable under the Act are to provide the tenant with a secure home and respect and protect their privacy. Under the Act, property managers/owners can enter tenanted premises by giving tenants appropriate entry notice and reason.

RENTING? KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

Tenants must be given 7 days notice before entry takes place for general inspections. A property manager/owner can set a specific time or give a 2-hour window in which entry can occur (e.g. entry to occur between 9-11am).

A minimum of 24 hours notice must be given before the proposed entry time in all other situations, including allowing tradespeople in for repairs and maintenance, showing a prospective buyer or tenant the property, or to conduct a valuation of the premises.

When a property manager/owner wants to conduct an open house where the premises for sale or re-let are entered and inspected by multiple prospective buyers or tenants, written permission must be sought from the tenant. The tenant must also receive at least 24 hours notice for the open house.

The same rule applies for conducting an on-site auction. Tenants must give permission in writing.

Any proposed entry must occur at a reasonable time and, unless the tenant agrees, must not be on Sundays or public holidays, or any other day before 8am or after 6pm. Penalties apply for unlawful entry.

Property managers/owners must also have a tenant's written permission before using photos showing their belongings in any form of advertising.

For more information on your rights as a tenant or obligations as an owner or property manager visit www.rta.qld.gov.au or contact the RTA direct on 1300 366 311

“Let us talk about a more prosperous tomorrow”

At Reventon, these are the words that we love to say to our clients, and we are dedicated to showing them how it is possible.

Founded in 2005, Reventon has a strong reputation built on trust, integrity and ethics. With four offices throughout Australia - the latest opening here in North Lakes - we enjoy helping our clients achieve their goals of owning their own home, looking after their investment property and protecting their financial future with other services including financial planning, accounting, insurance and investment advice.

The licensee of Reventon's first

Queensland office, Amanda Pearce, chose North Lakes as her base because "I've lived and worked in North lakes for the past 14 years and I've seen the community blossom into an amazing area full of life. There was no question that we would open the new office here; my son has gone to school here, I've been involved in the community for years and I love this area and the people that live here."

Our new North Lakes office is ideally located for both home buyers as well as investors - it is 40 minutes from the CBD, 1 hour to the heart of the Sunshine Coast, and Redcliffe is just down the road. There are plenty of schools, shops, public parks and recreation areas, and the strong community aspect makes new comers feel right at home.

We welcome all clients, friends and community members to drop into our new North Lakes office for a coffee and a chat. Our Brisbane team are also proudly sponsoring the upcoming “HotRods for the Homeless” event at the Redcliffe Showgrounds on November 24th - we invite you to come meet our team and join us in supporting this great cause.
